Roosevelt Tells of Business Plans

Lower Rates Of Interest Proposed

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—President Roosevelt disclosed today that his administration was seeking two immediate objectives in the effort to start business back on the upswing. They are:

1—Stimulation of the heavy goods industries with private capital.

2—Lower interest rates and lower building costs.

Next week, Mr. Roosevelt announced, he expects to meet with leaders of private utilities.

It was assumed he would urge upon them a program of replacement and repair, which government economists say would pump large sums of money into the building trades.

The President was asked at his press conference whether he would discuss the question of utilities valuations with the power men. He replied it probably would be one of the topics.

CITES HIGH INTEREST

The executive analyzed the present situation and declared the lag in the building industry was caused by a great many factors.

He mentioned first, high real estate costs. Coupled with this was the problem of transportation, which people require to get to and from work when they go far enough out in the country to get cheap property.

The cost of materials and the cost of labor in some sections has been another deterrent, he said.

There has been very little done by industry to organize large scale building. Mr. Roosevelt added it was cheaper per unit to build a hundred houses than five.

Finally, he mentioned the very high interest rate prevailing on first, second and third mortgage money. In the North, it averages over 8 per cent, and in the South runs from 10 to 12 per cent, he said.

UTILITY PARLEY SET

The President amplified briefly his recent conference with business leaders looking to a privately financed housing drive. He said all kinds of homes were contemplated, large and small, duplex apartment houses, built for sale or rent.

The President said he did not know whether the utilities men would want to discuss a building program with him when they come to the White House next week.

At his last press conference, the President announced that if utilities evaluated and capitalized themselves properly, and set fair rates for the consumer, there would be no competition from the federal government.

He also said in that press conference that he had experienced difficulty in getting the utilities men to discuss the matter of valuation with him.

Bishop Cries For Simpson Conviction

BULLETIN

Judge John E. Swift this afternoon completed his charge to the jury in the case of Edward P. Simpson, alleged police slayer, on trial for murder in Middlesex Superior Court. Under orders to return for further instructions, the jury was then taken to lunch.

With words that cracked like a whip, District Attorney Warren L. Bishop today demanded that Edward P. Simpson, alleged killer of two Newton policemen, be found "guilty—guilty—guilty of murder in the first degree."

The district attorney reviewed the case against the smirking ex-convict in 13 emotion-filled minutes—establishing a new record for brevity in capital case summations in this state.

ONLY ONE VERDICT

Pausing in his searing attack on the defense to shake his finger angrily at Simpson, the district attorney shouted:

"We can't allow such an inhuman fiend as that defendant sitting in the prisoner's cage to be at large.

SAFETY OF ALL

Then, whirling swiftly to face the jury box, he continued:

"It is your duty, gentlemen, to send out a message that such must not be tolerated in Middlesex County or in the State of Massachusetts."

City Opens Trial of Its Curley Suit

Former Governor, Co-Defendant Are Both Absent

With both defendants and the key witnesses absent from the courtroom, the city today opened trial of its suit against former Governor James M. Curley and Dr. Joseph Santosuosso to recover $50,000 allegedly improperly received by them in settlement of a $120,000 damage suit against the city.

From all indications, the trial before Judge Frederick W. Fosdick in Suffolk superior court will revolve around documentary evidence such as photostatic copies of checks drawn for payment of the suit for $85,000, depositions of witnesses and photostatic copies of hotel registration cards.

Attorney Wendell P. Murray, Curley's counsel, won the first legal tilt in a battle of technicalities when he objected to admission into evidence of a statement made by Frederick H. Graves to the effect that Santosuosso told Graves he did pay a certain sum of money to Curley.

JUDGE MAKES RULING

Judge Fosdick ruled that part of Graves' deposition as inadmissable on the grounds of hearsay and that a conspirator's testimony was inadmissable against a fellow-conspirator after a conspiracy is completed.

The justice did rule, however, that the evidence was admissable as far as the city's case against Santosuosso was concerned on the grounds that it proved an admission on his part to the conspiracy.

The city alleges that the money Curley and Santosuosso received was part of an $85,000 settlement made when Curley was mayor with the General Equipment Corporation, Brookline avenue.

SUED FOR WATER DAMAGE

The corporation sued the city for damages to stock when a water main burst during the construction of the Kenmore square tunnel.

The city claims that through Santosuosso, who was general counsel for the corporation, Curley and Santosuosso took the $50,000.

U. S. Indicts O'Hara and Shawcross

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 12 (AP)—A federal grand jury today returned indictments against Walter E. O'Hara, managing director of Narragansett race track; the chairman of the state Democratic committee, the Narraganset Racing Association and three others, charging violation of the federal corrupt practices act.

The indictments were read by Judge John C. Mahoney to whom the jury reported. O'Hara, whose racing plant has been kept closed by national guardsmen as a result of his feud with Governor Robert E. Quinn, was indicted on four counts as was the racing association.

$100,000 FOR POLITICS

William A. Shawcross, Democratic committee chairman, was indicted on two counts; Michael J. Regan, assistant treasurer of the racing association, on two counts; Thomas A. Kennelly, former Democratic state chairman, on one count, and James E. Dooley, former vice-president of the racing association, one count.

Officials said the arraignment would take place at the convenience of the defendants.

The jury reported its investigation disclosed that the racing association had "expended of its corporate funds in a single year to committees and persons closely identified with political activities close to $100,000."

The report said the jury felt such contributions "can never be justified in a state where the receipts of gifts by the Democratic state committee during the same 12 months, according to available but meagre records, amounted to little more than half that sum."

WANTS FURTHER PROBE

The report declared the records of the Democratic committee were "woefully incomplete" and called "public attention to the need for a thoroughgoing investigation by proper state authorities into the conduct and actions of persons holding public positions and accepting funds which have been paid for reasons that are unexplained and not apparent."

The jury had been considering alleged donations to political organizations by the racing association

3 Loot Alvan Fuller Plant of $10,000; Guns Peril 50

While former Governor Alvan T. Fuller sat in his private office on the same floor, his Packard Motor Car Company plant at 1089 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, was robbed of between $10,000 and $12,000 by bandits this afternoon.

Five shots were fired by one of three armed holdup men as they left the credit and accounting department office on the second floor, where more than 50 men and women workers had been forced either to lie down on the floor or to face a wall.

Behind them, in a huge vault where she had been counting the payroll just delivered from a bank they left a girl clerk, Miss Blanche Lippe, in a dead faint.

The bandits calmly walked down thet wo flights of stairs they had used to reach the offices, crossed the large first floor salesroom, passing a number of salesmen, stepped into an automobile with stolen plates and drove away along Commonwealth avenue in the direction of Brighton.

POLICE BLOCK ROADS

When police were notified from a half a dozen telephones in the Packard plant, a radio alarm was sent out and cruiser cars from Boston, Cambridge and Newton were sent to guard all roads.

Although the number of the bandit car was taken, no one was certain as to whether or not a fourth man was at the wheel.

Miss Lippe, payroll clerk, was part way through her count of the payroll money when the bandit trio entered the Packard salesroom.

They went up the stairs to the mezzanine floor, then up a second flight to the second main floor, turned left, walked along a short corridor and reached the main office, where the 50 clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers were working.

ORDERS ALL LIE DOWN

One bandit, apparently the leader, stood in the doorway, with his hands in his coat pockets and cried:

"Everybody down on your face and make it snappy!"

The other two men walked over to the credit and accounting of-

Left Out of Lunch So He Sues for $250,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—when the liverwurst left his lunchbox, Charles A. Stiff testified today, he knew he wife's love had flown out the window.

Stiff, veteran baggage master of the New York Central railroad, has sued Oscar F. Douglas, Jr., an executive of the F. W. Woolworth Company, for $250,000, charging alienation of affections.

He said he first suspected his wife's love was ebbing when she began receiving gifts from a mysterious "Uncle Horace."

Redouble Guard On Pius' Health

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 12 (AP)—Physicians redoubled precautions today to guard Pope Pius' health as the first winter cold touched the Vatican.

Outwardly, the 80-year-old pontiff appeared as strong as during the summer, but a swelling of his legs—with which he suffered last winter—has caused him to give up using stairways. Injections are administered daily to conserve his strength.

Social Credit Aide Sentenced to Jail

30 Rookie Police Start Tagging

Armed with chalk, their faces grim with determination, 30 Boston rookie patrolmen marched out of police headquarters today to wage a war on illegal parkers.

Free of political and social affiliations, the rookies were ordered to rid the downtown streets of parkers who think fire hydrants, loading zones and restricted streets are safe spots to leave their cars.

In charge of the detail was Lieutenant Andrew J. Markhard, and his last words to his boys in blue were to "mark hard with the chalk."

Along with the chalk the rookies are carrying deadly weapons—three-way "no fix" tags. These tags will be turned into police headquarters each night where a special crew of clerks will handle what they believe will be "heavy business."

Lieutenant Markhard instructed the officers to use discretion in dealing with violators. He said:

"If it's a case of only five minutes overtime parking, you can use your own judgment. But where there is a flagrant violation let the autoist carry his appeal to the courts."

Baby Testifies In Court Trial

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 12 (AP)—A four and a half year old girl was permitted to testify in court here today against John David, 59, retired naval lieutenant, who is accused of attacking her.

Judge Robert M. Franklin permitted the child to take the stand after she had said, in reply to a question, that she would get a spanking if she told a lie.

"The child realized that she would be punished if she told a lie," Judge Franklin declared, "and on that ground I rule that she is capable of testifying."

Shoe Workers Ask To Retain Hapgood

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Delegates at the United Shoe Workers of America's first national convention voted today to retain Powers Hapgood, young Socialist labor leader and Harvard graduate, as national director of the CIO union.

A resolution asking John L. Lewis, chairman of the CIO, to continue Hapgood in office was adopted unanimously by the delegates, who rose to their feet and cheered.

Girl, 13, Missing 5 Months, Home

Thirteen-year-old Elizabeth Hodgkinson of Neponset avenue, Hyde Park, daughter of a Boston policeman found in New York, was brought home today after being missing for nearly six months.

She disappeared July 23 and since that law enforcement agencies, shipping officials and railroad authorities had conducted a world-wide search for the girl.

"I went to New York to see the sights," she said upon arrival here by bus, accompanied by her parents. "I was afraid to come home for fear I'd be scolded."

400,000 Chinese Form New Lines

Shanghai Defenders Enter Chain Of Trenches Defending Nanking

SHANGHAI, Nov. 12 (AP)—China's Shanghai armies, about 400,000 strong, fell back today toward the Chinese "Hindenburg line" more than 50 miles to the west.

Japanese troops, numbering 200,000, forced Chinese from towns and trenches in the Shanghai area. The Chinese fought only rear guard actions as they withdrew toward the chain of trenches and pillboxes, stretching from Changshu south through Soochow, Wukiang and Kashing, and protecting Nanking.

Nippon's war planes ranged into the interior as the troops advanced. One flight bombed the American Church Mission Hospital at Wusih, 80 miles northwest of Nanking, killing two Chinese staff members. Five Americans escaped injury.

LOOK TO SETTLEMENT

With the fall of Shanghai to Japanese, officials of the Shanghai municipal council began a widespread cleanup of anti-Japanese societies operating in the International Settlement.

Stirling Fessenden, American secretary-general of the council, said he did not believe Japanese would interfere with the international group's functions, and added that there was little friction between the council and the Japanese.

Japanese naval authorities announced today the Whangpoo river was now safe for passenger and freight ships with the retreat of Chinese troops.

The President Doumer, French liner, was the first vessel to enter Shanghai harbor since last August. Officials of the Dollar Line said they were uncertain when their ships would resume calling at Shanghai, but that they hoped it would be soon.

GUERILLA WARFARE

Creeks, canals and lakes slice the terrain Japanese must cross before reaching the new Chinese lines. The countryside is ideal for guerilla warfare such as Chinese stragglers in the North are using against Japanese. Reports from Peiping were that thousands of Chinese were harassing Japanese in Hopeh province. Flood and famine refugees fled southward in Shantung province.

As a final gesture of defiance to Japan's conquest of the Shanghai area and in honor of the anniversary of the birth of Sun Yat-Sen, founder of the Chinese republic, Chinese flags fluttered from many buildings in the Shanghai International Settlement and French concession. Until today, no Chinese flags had been flown in the International areas.

2,000 CASUALTIES

The Japanese announced that columns advancing from two directions took possession of Nanziang, 10 miles west of Shanghai, and captured the village of Anting, inflicting 2,000 casualties. Despite reports to the contrary, Japanese said they had not landed large numbers of reinforcements on the lower Whangpoo or Yangtze rivers.

During the morning, Japanese gunboats bombarded the Nantao waterfront to annihilate the last feeble resistance of Chinese. All Chinese defenders except a handful of trapped stragglers had retreated before dawn under orders from Nanking.

A check by French concession police showed 14 persons were killed and 16 wounded in the concession yesterday. A number of American and foreign newspapermen and photographers were endangered as they watched yesterday's battle.

British Councillor To Meet Hitler

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council, will go to Berlin next week, Sir John Simon announced in Commons today, and will see Reichschancellor Hitler.

Sir John, chancellor of the exchequer, said the visit would be "entirely private and unofficial."

U. S. Envoy 'Sour' at Brussels

ANTHONY EDEN ENVOY DAVIS YVON DELBOS

International News Photographic Service

Ambassador-at-large and leader of the U. S. delegation to the nine-power conference in Brussels, Norman H. Davis is seen in various moods. The photos were made while Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to France, was addressing the conference, which may or may not explain why Envoy Davis looks so harassed at left; so contemplative at right.

Citizens' Army Ready For Pernambuco Revolt

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 12 (INS)—Frontier advices escaping Brazilian censorship through Uruguay today said revolt had flared in Brazil within 24 hours after President Getulio Vargas proclaimed a new Fascist constitution.

These reports stated Governor Carlos Lima Cavalcanti of the state of Pernambuco had assembled an army of civilians to resist the new regime. Well-armed, these forces were reported entrenched near the city of Pernambuco.

A rigorous censorship prevailed at Rio de Janeiro. The government there insisted order ruled throughout the country.

But border reportes stated that Armando Salles Oliveira, former presidential candidate, supported by a section of the Brazilian army, planned a counter-coup against Vargas and the new constitution.

Another movement against the new regime was said to be headed, ironically, by Plino Salgado, leader of the Integralist party, Brazil's green-shirt, Fascist group.

Word received via Montevideo said Brazil is "seething with anger" against President Vargas, and that his coup succeeded only because he was supported by major military commanders.

Spread of Fascism Fear in Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (INS)—Fear that Fascism may spread through South America, bringing a crop of dictators sympathetic to the Fascist idea in the wake of Brazil's swing to totalitarianism, caused deep concern here today.

Powerful German and Italian radio stations have been spreading propaganda throughout Latin America, praising life under the Hitler and Mussolini governments.

It was admitted on responsible authority that this radio campaign, which has been carried on for months and which the United States government cannot combat, has had a marked effect.

Aside from the serious political aspects, the Vargas dictatorship brought the United States into the picture vitally with these effects:

1. The proposal to lease United States destroyers to Brazil is definitely cancelled. The administration believes it would be "very unwise" in the present situation.

2. The monetary stabilization agreement of last summer, under which the United States linked the dollar closely to the milreis, agreed to sell the Brazilian treasury $60,000,000 gold and provide technicians to help establish a central state bank, is not considered to be affected.

3. The United States government will make no immediate protest against the cancellation of payments on foreign debts proclaimed by the new government, which threatens a loss of $369,000,000 to American investors. It was pointed out this government was not a party to the agreement in 1934, under which Vargas renewed interest payments on federal, state and municipal bond issues in default.

Roosevelt Silent On Events in Brazil

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt declined comment today on the new corporate form of government set up in Brazil.

He referred all inquiries about the set-up there to the State Department when asked at a press conference if the new government would have any effect on the Monroe Doctrine, or on the monetary arrangement between Brazil and the United States.

Spanish Rebels Forced Back

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 12 (AP)—Spanish government sources reported today that a Catalan infantry attack in the Sabinanigo sector of the northern Aragon front had forced the Spanish insurgents to retire from several front line positions.

The insurgents insisted, however, that the assault had failed and said large numbers of bodies found after the fighting supported their contention that insurgent machine gunners had taken a heavy toll.

The insurgents attempted to encircle the Catalan spearhead, the government reported, but failed. Insurgent communiques reporting the action yesterday said "whole regiments" of the Catalonians had been crushed.

Insurgent diplomatic sources said Japan, Portugal and Hungary were expected soon to accord full recognition to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government.

Crisis With Japs Seen in Britain

LONDON, Nov. 12 (INS)—Belief the situation in the Far East is rapidly approaching a crisis for Britain was expressed here today.

Already alarmed by the Japanese threat to occupy the International Settlement in Shanghai, British officialdom was further shocked by the growing anti-British feeling in Japan and open declarations by the Nipponese press that Britain is Japan's "ultimate enemy."

Grave concern was felt over the increasing ascendency of the Japanese military clique, as evidenced by the warning of Lieutenant-General Iwane Matsui, Japanese commander-in-chief at Shanghai, that his troops may enter the International Settlement.

In this connection, Great Britain is ready to join wholeheartedly in any American protest against a Japanese attempt to dominate the international area.

Jap Fliers Bomb U. S. Hospital

NANKING, Nov. 12 (AP)—Five Americans, members of the American Church Mission Hospital at Wusih, 80 miles west of here, escaped death today when Japanese planes bombed the hospital and church buildings.

Two Chinese members of the staff were killed and seven were injured. All of the buildings were said to have displayed United States flags. The director of the hospital informed the United States embassy of the attack.

Wragg at Jersey's 'Constitution Day'

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 12 (INS)—New Jersey's signing of the ratification of the United States Constitution was celebrated in gala fashion here last night and early today with a military parade and fireworks.

Governor Harold G. Hoffman was host to representatives of five of the original 13 states. Governors Richard McMullin of Delaware and Robert L. Quinn of Rhode Island, and State Senator George H. Wragg of Massachusetts attended.

This Nation Can Act Alone, Spokesman At Brussels Says

BRUSSELS, Nov. 12 (AP) — An authoritative Japanese source declared today the United States, acting for itself, still had "a ticket of entry" to discuss Far Eastern peace with Japan, despite Tokyo's refusal of the Brussels conference mediation appeal.

This source said the United States ambassador to Japan, Joseph C. Grew, could always approach the Japanese Foreign Office to discuss the Chinese-Japanese conflict from the standpoint of the American interests involved.

NEW REJECTION

Basing their replies on press summaries of Japan's reply rejecting a second invitation to the Brussels conference, the parley delegations said they saw no justification for addressing a new invitation from the conference to Japan.

They interpreted these summaries to mean Japan wanted the conference to recommend direct negotiations between China and Japan, a plan which Premier Mussolini's Italian ambassador has urged.

If the text of the Japanese reply, which has not yet been officially received here, excludes all possibility of conciliation within the framework of the Nine Power treaty, conference leaders said they planned to draw up an historical statement of the situation and probably an agenda for the second stage of the conference.

After a suitable period of adjournment, perhaps a week, during which the delegations would receive instructions from their home governments, the conference would consider positive methods of dealing with the conflict.

Views expressed in official conference circles were that this should avoid taking the form of "quarantining" or boycotting Japan but should extend material help to China, particularly in the form of supplies and financial credits.

A proposal by China's Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo for "moral, diplomatic and economic restraint" of aggression excited comment today among the conferees.

CHINA IS READY

Some diplomatic quarters believed Dr. Koo's suggestion—made in an Armistice Day broadcast to the United States—might have been inspired, inasmuch as it followed a lengthy talk with the chief delegates of the United States, Britain and France.

The Chinese delegation, headed by Dr. Koo, announced only that the Chinese had assured Ambassador-at-Large Norman H. Davis, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos that China was still willing to discuss peace, even in event of Japanese refusal of the conference's latest overture.

The suggestion of Dr. Koo was for restraint by "peace-loving nations" but without recourse to force.

Refugee Children Sent Back to Spain

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—One hundred and sixty Basque children whom Britain rescued from war in northern Spain started back for their homeland today.

The first contingent to be repatriated out of 4000 boys and girls who had been given refuge in England, they entrained at Victoria station for the start of the land and water journey to territory now under insurgent military sway.

GEN. JOHNSON SAYS:

U. S. Coal Board Action Is Needed

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 12—In marked contrast with the Maritime Commission, which has just handed in a report on the sick shipping industry—a report rarely equalled for courage, frankness and efficiency—is the Bituminous Coal Commission.

HUGH S. JOHNSON

It was set up to restore another sick industry and put tens of thousands of miners to work at union wages. There is no labor dispute there. With few exceptions the operators regard their contract with Mr. John Lewis' United Mine Workers as an asset.

Nobody is more firm in his conviction than Mr. Lewis that when, at union wages, coal costs $1.39 at the pit mouth, operators can't keep miners at work if railroads and great corporations take advantage of the demoralization of the industry and insist on buying their coal at 70 to 80 cents. They are now taking coal away from both miners and operators without paying what it is worth.

The public gets little benefit. They don't buy their coal at 80 cents a ton. It is precisely the same situation that NRA encountered when it first struck the desolated bituminous coal industry.

The President understood the situation thoroughly because he came from a family of coal operators. We arrived at regional prices that would permit fair wages, continuous employment and a small profit. We did it by negotiation and decision, and with the constant support and pressure of the President. We put that degraded industry into the black for the first time in years, relieved the most distressing labor situation in the United States, and if the consuming public was prejudiced or made any kick, I never heard it.

* * *

I mention this to prove it can be done. There is no longer anything theoretical about it. NRA went out. The code structure collapsed again, but, so far as this tortured industry was concerned, there has never been very much difference of opinion that, in the interests of the whole community, bituminous coal needed a restoration of the principles of the old code.

Finally, after one futile attempt, Congress gave the industry what it needed in the Guffey Act. Instead of leaving it to an administrator, that act provided a commission.

It has been appointed. It has been on the job more months than NRA. Worked days before it produced the coal code. The commission has done precisely nothing. Employers and employes in the industry are equally disgusted.

The commission squabbles over picayune patronage, concerns itself with prima donna preferences, fumes, fiddles and quarrels over office furniture and which commissioner shall have precisely what style of brass goboon in his office—while the whole industry and tens of thousands of miners and hundreds of thousands miners' dependents are living on little or nothing.

(Radio comment by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson is broadcast every Monday night at 8 o'clock, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 10 o'clock and on Thursday night at 8 o'clock, through Station WBZ-WBZA.)

* * *

If ever there was an administrative situation that needed a swift kick in the pants from supreme authority, this is it. The difference between action and paralysis lies in leadership such as Joe Kennedy gave the Maritime Commission, or Jim Landis, following Joe, gave the SEC. Without that, a commission is a morgue—such as the Federal Trade Commission. This outfit isn't even a morgue where the corpses are still on view—it's a graveyard.

The disorganization here is another minor cause for the present business recession. With winter coming on, unemployment and lack of buying power in the submerged third increasing, here is one spot where a little action would make a lot of business.

This condition is more than a reproach to the administration. The commission is Senator Guffey's particular baby. It has turned its attention more toward political patronage than to economic action. A good many people are slightly apprehensive that the Senator's great abilities and energies also lie more in that direction. It would also help his sterling standing as Senate New Dealer Number One to spill a drop of turpentine on these somnolent kiyoodles of his own choosing.

Ryan Heir Spurns Carolina Bride; 'I Was Drunk When I Wed,' He Says

Claims She Got Him Whiskey; Told All About Baby

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—Basil "Pat" Ryan's one hope and aim is to "get out" of his "one-day" marriage to Martha Barkley, the Journal-American said today in a copyrighted story from Hickory, N. C.

Ryan declared flatly, the Journal-American reported, that he was so drunk on Carolina corn whiskey that he does not even remember going through a marriage ceremony.

He said he does not remember going to the hotel with his wife and the seven-weeks-old baby she bore out of wedlock—in fact does not remember anything until he awoke in a hospital.

SAYS GIRL GOT WHISKEY

Ryan, heir to the copper millions of his grandfather, Thomas Fortune Ryan, asserted the raw whiskey, "which knocked me for a loop," was obtained at a filling station by the 21-year-old Southern girl whom he married Thursday night.

And finally, wan, shaking and obviously ill, the handsome, athletic son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barry Ryan of New York declared it was his immediate intention to seek an annulment.

CALLS SELF "SUCKER"

Referring to himself as a "kind-hearted sucker," Ryan sat up tensely in bed and said:

"I remember taking a few drinks and driving around. I promise you that is the last thing I remember.

"I remember nothing of a justice of the peace or a hotel room or anything of that kind.

"The next thing I rememebr is waking up in the hospital Friday morning with Albert Spurlock (football coach and friend) shaking me and asking me if I knew I was married.

"I have gotten Saul Bagby, a very fine local attorney, to help me out of this mess.

"I feel I never want to look at or talk to another woman again—that's how upset I am."

Bitterness crept into his voice as he said:

"This being a rich man's son is certainly not what it's cracked up to be. They expect too much of the child of a wealthy family and it often tends to ruin a kid's life."

LOST TEN POUNDS

"You ask me if Martha is good looking. I would not consider her so."

Ryan could not get his mind away from "that fateful Thursday," as he called it.

"The combination of this hangover and this situation has certainly got me down in the dumps," he said. "I want to get straightened out physically—clear my head, get rid of the jitters, and then I'm going to tackle this situation."

The exclusive interview took place in Ryan's private room on the second floor of the red brick local Memorial Hospital, where he has been attended night and day by three special nurses and three orderlies.

He was dressed in a hospital nightgown and occasionally reached out a trembling hand for a glass of orange juice. Frequently he coughed hackingly.

His hair already is streaked with grey at the temples although he is only 25. His 6 feet 2½ inches stretched almost the length of the bed, even though he was half sitting, propped by three pillows. He had lost, he said, 10 of his 190 pounds since he arrived at the hospital.

RENTED CABIN

He told his story clearly and with an evidently honest effort to skip none of the details.

"I came here September 1," he said, "to assist Spurling in coaching the football team of Lenoir Rhyne College. I had played end at college and I was end coach here.

"Spurling, Tony Moreski, the line coach, and I rented a cabin 10 miles from town on the shore of Little Lake Hickory. It was too far to make the trip every day into town and after a month we looked around for another place.

"Spurling had known Mrs. Elizabeth Keitner, Martha's sister, several years ago when he was here before. Elizabeth and her husband, Clem, had a house with a nice large room to rent. It was about the only decent room available we could find. Tony and I moved in about Oct. 7. Spurling decided to live somewhere else.

"The first time I ever saw Martha, whom I am now supposed to have married, was on Tuesday of last week."

"Tony and I were sipping coffee at the breakfast table. There was a knock at the door. I thought it was the Negro girl shaking the furnace. I was busy thinking over some new plays for the team.

"Tony said, 'What's the matter? Don't you hear the knock?' He opened the door.

"In came this young woman with a baby in her arms. I had never seen her before.

"She introduced herself as Elizabeth's sister, and said her name was Martha. She didn't say whether she was married or not, and of course I presumed that she was.

"She stayed overnight with the baby Tuesday and Wednesday. In moving about the house, she spoke to me and I answered pleasantly, but I did not have much to do with her.

"Then came that Thursday morning. She was standing over the tubs washing the baby's clothing. I was sipping coffee again.

"She turned suddenly and proceeded without provocation to tell me a long story about her predicament. She said, 'You will hear it eventually around town; I might as well tell you I am not married.'

"She said she had been in love with Buzz Parks and he with her and that they decided to get married, but something happened."

(This refers to Ned Parks, the high school sweetheart whom Martha charged with paternity of her child and who left Hickory on June 1. She has obtained a warrant charging Parks with nonsupport.)

"She said it was his family that objected to their marriage. She started to cry and said she wanted to marry Parks only to give the baby a name, not because she still loved him.

"She said he was in Raleigh, working. I couldn't figure out why she didn't go after him.

"I've always been a kind-hearted sucker and I am sympathetic by nature. I listened to her without giving her any encouragement. But because she looked so worried, I told her I would try to give her some advice on what to do.

THAT "FATEFUL" RIDE

"It was then about 8:30 o'clock in the morning. I said I was going in my car to Marion, which isn't far, to see a football coach, Harry Ream. I said I would be back later.

"She said she was going back to her home in Morganton in the afternoon. Finally I promised to stop on my way back to discuss her troubles with her. I got back at 6:30 or 7, and she was dressed and waiting.

"We got into my car and she said, 'Let's drive while I ask your advice.'

"I forgot to say that while I was with Harry Ream I had a few beers, but I was still cold sober.

"In Morganton we stopped at a filling station. She seemed to know someone there and routed out a bottle of liquor.

"It was corn, and a powerhouse to me. I hadn't had a drink of liquor since I started coaching here in September."

Meanwhile, in Morganton, N. C., where the marriage took place, there was a sharp political fight reported. Martha's dad is a Republican leader and some of her critics are Democrats, especially those defending young Parks, whom she charges is the father of her son.

FATHER ENTERS CASE

Martha is so positive of her claim against young Parks that she has sworn out a warrant against him on a paternity charge.

Mrs. Mina Ross, Burke county's woman sheriff, said that a warrant for Ned's arrest was issued in October and signed by Martha. She said she had not been able to find any trace of the young accused philanderer.

Meanwhile, John Barry Ryan, "Pat's" father, entered the scene. From his swank Park Avenue apartment in New York City, he telephoned Recorder of Deeds L. H. Phillips of Newton, asking if a marriage license had been issued to his son.

While she didn't call on her ailing husband today, Martha was indignant about the way young Ryan was taken from her side. She blamed a football coach for this intrusion. Young Ryan had been assisting a football coach in Hickory.

Said Martha:

"We went to the Hickory Hotel for the night. On the way there we stopped and my husband bought a pint of liquor. He drank three or four drinks of that in our hotel room and then went to sleep.

"About 11 o'clock the next day, the coach came and knocked on the door. My husband went out with him. The next thing I knew was when they called me and told me he was in the hospital."

Still ready to press her charges against young Parks, Martha insisted again that young Ryan knew all about her previous romance and the baby—she calls him "Danny Boy"—before they were married. She explained:

"I thought I should tell him everything about me. So I told him about Ned and about my baby. He was terribly sympathetic. I think that was what won me. He asked me to marry him and I said 'yes.'"

It's 'Rum, Romance, Rebellion'

MRS. MARTHA BARKLEY RYAN

Basil "Pat" Ryan, scion of millionaire family, now spurns his Carolina bride, Mrs. Martha Barkley Ryan. He has started a move to liberate himself from the marriage to girl who is the mother of a seven weeks' old baby. Ryan claims he was so drunk he does not remember going through a marriage ceremony. At the same time, on charges made by the Ryan bride, shown above, police search for Ned Parks (center, top) as the father of the baby.

PAJAMA-CLAD GIRL PENS LOVE NOTE TO 'TIGGLY,' KILLS SELF

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (INS)—Catherine Wilds, 22, blonde daughter of a prosperous Washington, D. C., attorney, put on blue silk pajamas today, wrote her last love letter and then turned on the gas in her apartment.

She was dead when found seated at the table in her tiny kitchenette, her head buried in her arms, gas flowing from two open jets.

On the window sill was the finished note:

"Dear Tiggly:

"I'm sorry. Good luck. I can't stand any more doubt—this vitally. You're swell. A little high-tempered. You know what your grandmother said about liking temper in people? So do I.

"You've given enough to get what you want. It would be wasted without a little more now. Sorry I piked out.

"Love—Cath—

"P. S. Only the nice things were real. I don't believe—no more affection. If it disappears, it will come back to help. The walks in the woods and the horses were the nicest."

This must have been written about dawn today. The body was still warm when found. The building superintendent said he saw the girl last night when she nodded good-night to him and went upstairs.

After writing this and a little notice, asking that her cousin, Manson Radford, be notified, she sealed the door with a curtain, turned on the gas and sat down to wait.

Radford told police the girl's father was Paul Campbell, Washington lawyer. It did not immediately become clear why she used the name Wilds. She was employed as secretary in a publishing house and had come here less than a year ago from Washington.

Police said they didn't know who "Tiggly" is.

since the body was reconvened recently by U. S. Attorney J. Howard McGrath.

Lieutenant Governor Raymond E. Jordan lifted the martial law ban on the race track about an hour before the jury reported.

The track has been under guard since its fall meeting was scheduled to open, October 17. The meet would have ended yesterday. National Guardsmen were at the plant until noon today when the period of martial law was declared ended.

TROOPS MAY RETURN

The proclamation lifting martial law, Jordan asserted, "does not mean the National Guard won't be out there again in the event of another threat."

Asked to elaborate, Jordan said he meant:

"A threat on the part of those responsible for the situation that necessitated the calling out of the guard in the first place."

The closing of the track followed a lengthy feud between Quinn and O'Hara. The Governor repeatedly has asserted the track would not operate with O'Hara in control.

Post-Office Love For Princeton Lonelies

Vassar Girls Accept Romance Bid Via Scented Notes

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

International News Service Special Correspondent

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12—Love fluttered over the ivy halls of Princeton today—love with a capital L—for Lovelorn.

In vine-veiled Little Hall, headquarters of the new lonely hearts club, masculine hearts trembled with each ring of the postman and masculine voices read aloud tender missives, inscribed on perfumed stationery, from the lonely feminine hearts in far off Vassar College.

Romance has come to Princeton, and the Lonely Hearts Bureau is in full swing, with 45 Vassar blondes and brunettes on file in a card index, and some 800 Princeton lads forming an eager line to the right.

"This thing is getting too big for us," sighed Robert "Bump" Brandin, co-chairman and co-inventor of the Lovelorn League. "We have more orders than we can fill. All the fellows want a postoffice love."

POSTOFFICE LOVE

"Right," agreed William "Gil" Gilroy, the other co-chairman. "They aren't leaving us any girls for ourselves."

This sudden boom in mail order romance began two weeks ago when Bump and Gil, class of '40 and roommates, inserted an advertisement in the Vassar Miscellany, a campus publication, urging lonely Vassar girls to correspond with similarly solitary Princeton men. "Find your 'postoffice love,'" they urged.

And the Vassar lassies, once they had recovered from the shock of learning that a Princeton man could be lonely, accepted the challenge like mad.

Letters—on white paper and scented paper and paper that was pale blue—drifted in a sentimental blizzard from Poughkeepsie to 121 Little Hall.

Letters from "Polly" and "Betty" and "Thelma" and "Down-hearted Susy." Some of them signed their full names. Some signed fictitious names. Some enclosed their photographs and some of them, Bump avers, are not bad.

They all wanted love. They all said, "Please write soon."

Bump says the boys will write as soon as he can assign the right girl to the right lad. It is a scientific problem.

"For instance," he said, lifting his feet high in the air and depositing them on the top of a nearby table, "there is a girl here who writes that she is interested in agriculture. Now, it will be quite a problem indeed to find a fellow who is interested in agriculture.

"This little blonde, now, this Betty who is interested in dancing, will be much easier to find a mate for."

ELEANOR HOLM

Eleanor to Wed Rose, Give Up Swimming

Nuptials Must Wait 2 Divorces, Showman Says in Denver

DENVER, Nov. 12 (AP)—Showman Billy Rose said today he has discarded all "silly shenanigans" about concerning his romance with Eleanor Holm Jarrett and decided to declare publicly they would be married as soon as they are divorced from their present mates.

And when they are married, Rose said, Miss Holm simply will be his wife. Her careers as swimmer, movie player and actress in his huge stage spectacles will be chucked.

Glamorous Miss Holm, who defied the American Olympic committee last year and was bounced out of the big Berlin show as a result, assented meekly:

MAP DIVORCE ACTIONS

Rose said his divorce from Fannie Brice, comedienne, would be up to her. Miss Holm, he said, will take action to divorce her singer-husband, Arthur Jarrett, as soon as she completes movie retakes in Hollywood.

"I trust Miss Brice undoubtedly will get her divorce as soon as she can," Rose stated, "but she's busy on a picture and probably won't be able to leave Hollywood for several weeks."

Rose and Miss Holm boarded a California-bound train this morning, both insisting their marital intentions had been discussed with Miss Brice and Jarrett.

READY TO QUIT SWIMMING

Miss Holm again nodded approval when Rose said her marriage to him would mean the end of her career as a swimmer and actress.

"I'm ready to dry off anyway," she said.

"Of course," Rose interposed, "if we decide she can make more money than I can, I'll be the one to take a rest."

"Eleanor and I haven't had much chance to see each other since we met and fell in love in Cleveland—where she was starring in my aquacade production last summer," Rose recounted. "I was out in Fort Worth all summer."

NEW SHOW OPENING

"She came from Hollywood to Fort Worth last week to see the opening of my new show and then she came along with the troupe to Denver.

"Several in my show were good friends she made at Cleveland and she wanted to be with them.

"Well, it was after we'd been together a couple of days again that a reporter came to my door last night.

"Instead of trying any silly shenanigans then about ducking the newspapers, I decided to make a simple, clear statement."

Now 37, Rose's career stepped through stages as shorthand champion, song writer and "Fannie Brice's husband" before he attained top recognition as a producer with his first spectacle, "Jumbo."

Cold Snap's End Due Here Tonight

Bostonians and New Englanders felt winter's freezing for the second day today as the mercury dropped to new lows for this time of the year in many sections.

At Concord and Lexington, weather stations reported thermometer readings at 16 above zero. In Concord, N. H., the mercury slipped to 19 above, to equal a 67-year-old record for that section.

However, don't shake all the mothballs (or moths) out of your overcoat yet, as the weather man predicts a rapid rise in the temperature tonight and tomorrow, with the usual weekend of rain.

Bishop Demands: 'Convict Simpson'

Brands Defendant as Inhuman Fiend and Asks Jury to Find in First Degree

case "most serious from the standpoint of public safety because it involves the safety of every man, woman and child in our Commonwealth."

Earlier, Defense Counsel John Boyle had pleaded with the jury to find that the shooting of Motorcycle Patrolman Lawrence E. Murphy was justifiable as a case of self-defense and that the murder of Patrolman Henry G. Bell was an "accident."

KEPT POLICE OFF STAND

Bell was murdered when Simpson was stopped in Newton for a traffic violation at midnight, August 21. Murphy fell mortally mortally wounded in a gun battle at the scene, in which Simpson was wounded in the neck.

When Bishop's abbreviated summation was ended, Judge John E. Swift ordered a brief recess, after which he commenced charging the jury.

Bishop opened calmly, explained he had intended to call several witnesses in addition to those who testified for the Commonwealth.

He said he kept several prospective police witnesses off the stand "so no one could say that the testimony was colored by brother officers of the slain men."

LIKE SOLDIERS

The phe said:

"The jury is mainly concerned with the fact that here were two police officers shot down and killed while on duty protecting the lives of the public."

Bishop likened the officers to "soldiers on the field of battle, protecting their country."

He commended the defendant's testimony to the jury, emphasizing:

"And, gentlemen, while you are deliberating you have the right to consider the attitude and demeanor of this defendant on the stand and his actions while Officer (William) Whelan was testifying."

The district attorney tore savagely at the fabric of defense woven by Boyle for his client. He said:

"My brother took issue with me on the fact I referred to the defendant as a fugitive from justice and argued that technically and legally he was not a fugitive from justice."

ASSAILS "PICK UPGIRL"

In the summation for the defense, Boyle bitterly assailed the testimony of Frances Frada, Cambridge "pick-up" girl, and Patrolman Whelan. He denounced their stories as "filled with contradictions."

"If these witnesses can't agree with each other, how are you going to find out who is telling the truth?"

The automobile ride that ended in double murder was sketched by Miss Frada and Patrolman William L. Whelan, fellow-officer of the slain policemen, earlier in the trial.

Their stories, the main props of the case against the smirking escaped convict, were harshly attacked by Boyle.

DIDN'T MENTION GUN

"Miss Frada never saw a gun that night. She said she stood in the street with the two officers behind the car, and talked with them.

"She said she had an opportunity to tell them about the gun and she said she had an opportunity to be killed. She said she didn't mention the gun to them. How can you believe that story?"

In her testimony, the girl had said she saw something in Simpson's hand that "looked like a revolver."

Blasting Whelan's version of the shooting, Boyle inquired:

"Is it possible to believe that Officer Whelan told the truth when he said he couldn't catch up with that car for three-quarters of a mile?

IN DARK STREET

"He said he brought a man back with him to identify Simpson. Why didn't he take Simpson to the Newton police station, where he could have held him for 48 hours?

"Why should he hold a police investigation in the middle of a dark street?"

In opening his summation, Boyle appealed to the jury to put aside all passion and prejudice and view the case in the light of the testimony. He said:

"I know you are going to pass on the evidence and I know you will banish from your mind all you have read and heard outside this courtroom.

"If you do that, you will satisfy your own conscience. You will have performed your duty."

Boyle started to speak in an atmosphere charged with electric intensity. Addressing the jury, the lawyer carefully outlined the two degrees of murder and manslaughter.

Boyle's voice cut sharply as he drew the fine line of demarcation between premeditated murder and accidental killing.

Back Bay Woman Dies in Hotel

Guest at a downtown hotel for eight days, a 40-year-old woman who registered as Miss Rose A. Baylor of Haviland street, Back Bay, was found dead in bed today.

The discovery was made by the hotel housekeeper, Mrs. Sarah Doherty. Death was ascribed to natural causes.

The Brighter Side - By Damon Runyon

Damon Runyon

It seems that the University of California has just completed a schedule of the crying periods of babies. The disclosures of the scientific searches at our great institutions of learning become more amazing every day.

The university of California finds that the maximum period of babies' crying is during the first four months of their lives. Then for four months afterwards, there is a period when the least crying occurs. After that, there is a period of about one year in which the babies cdy a whole lot.

The Press Association dispatch which narrate sthis latest discovery says the University of California worked out the schedule for the benefit of young fathers, adding, flippantly, that it shows them when to be away from home. Probably the dispatch was written by a bachelor, who assumes that crying babies are a terror to young fathers.

We do not think that this is generally true. Young fathers and young mothers, too, like to boast their baby is the nicest, quietest little baby in the world, but we think that the only young fathers who resent crying babies are insomniacs.

FATHERS SNORE ON

It is our conclusion, drawn from a lengthy study of the matter, that most young fathers are sleeping soundly when babies do their most crying, so all the young fathers know about the matter is what the haggard young mother reports the next morning, when she says:

"Junior wouldn't let me get a wink of sleep."

A favorite topic of cartoon and jest in the old time comic prints was the young father walking the floor at night with a crying baby. We have figures to prove that in the past 30 years, the number of fathers walking the floor with crying babies is less than one-half of one per cent of the number of young mothers performing the the same ritual.

In short, the custom has almost entirely died out among young fathers, due to the fact that they are sounder sleepers nowadays than ever before. The young mothers, however, sleep about the same as always, which is very little.

MOTHERS LIGHT SLEEPERS

We think the science of the University of California, and all other similar institutions, fails us in not giving us an explanation of the phenomomenon of the young mother's facility for waking up the instant a baby as much as wiggles a toe in the night.

You can give a young mother a big sleeping potion when she retires, but just let baby go ee-ee-eep in the middle of the night, and mother is out of the hay, staggering like a slightly-punch drunk fighter, and groping for baby's crib. As for father, he goes on sawing wood.

We would like to understand that singular co-ordination between the sleeping young mother's sub-consciousness and a light sneeze from baby. We presume the scientists would explain it as the mother instinct, but why does the father instinct fail to respond in the same manner?

DAMON PREFERS CRIERS

It is claimed by some students of the situation that babies cry more between the hours of 3 a. m. and 4 a. m. than at any other time, but we do not think this is true. They merely cry louder.

Personally, we prefer the crying babies to the non-cryers. If you approach a baby, and it starts bellering, you know at once just where you stand with that baby. It is the silent babies that confuse one.

A baby that gazes up at you out of those big blue, black, or brown eyes, and never utters a sound, is difficult of fathom. We have always been suspicious of that kind. It may be plotting something.

If a baby smiles broadly, that only increases our suspicion. It may be one of those come-on smiles, designed to disarm you to the extent of chucking the baby under the chin, and cooing "Oodle-oodle-oodle" to it, just before it takes a snap at your finger.

On the other hand, something in your appearance may be tickling the risibilities of the baby, and that is worse than anything else. It indicates disrespect.

WEEPERS HONEST

It is making fun of you in a manner that you cannot openly resent. The crying baby is the baby for us. It is the honest baby.

The only thing that interests or enlightens us in connection with the schedule of the University of California is learning the exact period of life at which some of our citizens begin their educaton.

It is in the fourth period depicted by the university's schedule. That is the period when babies cry a whole lot. These are the babies that grow up to be race track bookmakers, and famous for their crying.

Curley Absent as City Opens Trial of Its Suit

sition in which he states the money was paid over to Santosuosso, and that he later met the former governor in a Washington hotel to discuss the "settlement" of the suit.

Edward F. McClennen, special counsel for the city, opened the case by offering as evidence photostatic copies of checks involved in the final settlement of the suit.

CHECK COPIES SHOWN

The first check was one made out to Santosuosso for $85,000. This check was drawn on the city of Boston. It was endorsed by Santosuosso, and made payable as of November 28, 1933.

A second check for $30,000, drawn on the First National Bank of Boston, was made out to Graves, and signed by Santosuosso as a trustee and drawer for the General Equipment Corporation.

Two more checks, both made out to Graves, totalling $35,000, were also introduced by McClennen into the evidence.

A photostatic copy of a registration card at the Mayflower Hotel, bearing the former Governor's name and address, and a deposition from the manager of the hotel, Ralph Poleo, stating Curley was at the hotel November 14, 15 and 16, of 1933, were also introduced as evidence.

HOTEL MEETING

The city charges that Curley met Graves in the Washington hotel at that time to discuss payment of the $85,000 by the city to the General Equipment Corporation.

Graves' deposition stated that Curley met him in Washington and there stated the terms under which the corporation would recover the $85,000 from the city.

Graves alleged that at that time it was understood he would pay the money over to Santosuosso, who would in turn pay it over to Curley.

Attorney Wendell P. Murray is representing the former governor, and Attorney Frank L. Simpson is representing Santosuosso. Corporation Counsel Henry E. Foley is assisting McClennen in the city's action.

Attorney Murray stated that the former governor "might appear in the court at some later time."

Report 3 Soviet Ambassadors Under Arrest

Famed Old Bolsheviks, Victims of Purge, Are Seized in Moscow

LONDON, Nov. 12 (INS)—Three Soviet ambassadors, all "old Bolsheviks" who risked their lives for political ideals during the Czarist regime, were under arrest in Moscow today, the Daily Telegraph reported.

Victims of the year-old purge which has brought death to 1200 citizens, including some of the most highly placed Soviet and army officials, the ambassadors reportedly in the meshes of the purge government are Constantine Yurenev, envoy to Germany; Leon Karsky, Turkey, and J. C. Davtyan to Poland.

OPERA SINGER HELD

Mme. Davtyan, who is well known as an opera singer under the name of Mme. Maxhova, and several members of the embassy staff in Poland also were arrested, said a Daily Telegraph dispatch from Warsaw.

Consul General Comner, the German representative in Leningrad, has been called back to Berlin at the request of the Soviets, the Telegraph said.

The alleged action against the German Consul and the Soviet Ambassador to Berlin closely followed Moscow's display of indignation over the Italo-German-Japanese pact against the Communist International.

Although it was officially denied in Moscow, said the Telegraph, there is reason to believe that several other prominent persons were arrested.

LISTED ARRESTS

Listed in the reported arrests were V. A. Kurtz, head of Intourist, the Soviet travel agency; Commissar Burnov of education and fine arts, Besimiansky, the "deputy poet laureate," and a prominent airplane manufacturer, Antupolev.

Ambassador Davytan has been absent from Warsaw for several weeks. Mme. Davtyan is said to have been a friend of Marshal Michael N. Tukhachevsky, army leader who was executed as a "Trotskyist" last June.

Yurenev until recently was ambassador to Tokyo. He has been a member of the Bolshevik party since 1905 and for his political alliance was repeatedly arrested and exiled under the Czar's rule.

Davtyan, too, spent time in jail before the Bolsheviks came into power, and during the war he was a German prisoner. Karsky also is an "Old Bolshevist," but is less well known.

Bandit Is Routed As Girl Grabs Gun

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12 (AP)—The kidnaper got away, but 19-year-old Irene Markley got his gun in hand.

Miss Markley and Ernest E. Fleenor, 25, were sitting in Fleenor's car at her home when the man robbed them of $12 and ordered them to drive him here.

"When he reached in his pocket," she told police, "I grabbed his revolver from a coat pocket. Then he fled."

Bonfire Victim's Condition Serious

Five-year-old Francis Dunn of Somerville avenue, Somerville, today was in serious condition at Somerville Hospital from burns received while playing around a bonfire.

The youngster's life was saved by John Kelley, hoseman at Engine 5, who himself was burned in beating out the child's flaming clothing.

15 Million Weld Estate Probed by State and U. S.

Federal and state authorities of Pennsylvania today began an investigation of the accounting of the $15,000,000 estate of William F. Weld, one of Boston's great fortune builders, who died in 1881.

The accounting has been asked in Philadelphia court and seeks an itemized statement of payments to heirs by the executors, on the ground that $600,000 was erroneously paid out by the executors. The estate was closed in 1883.

At the same time, the department of justice of Pennsylvania and the department of revenue have joined in the investigation to see what collateral taxes, if any, may be due the state.

Weld lived on Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay, and built his huge fortune in shipping and finances. After conflicts with Boston tax authorities, he established legal residence in Philadelphia, although he lived in Boston practically all his life.

Under the present dispute is a $400,000 payment to Weld's widow, in addition to $100,000 bequeathed her in the will, according to those who have reopened settlement of the estate.

Student Is Dead Of Blast Burns

NEW BEDFORD, Nov. 12—Roger Lumbard, 17, one of six students injured in the laboratory explosion at the New Bedford textile school on Wednesday died today in St. Luke's Hospital.

Lumbard and his companions were hurled against the wall when the terrific blast wrecked the laboratory during a recess experiment with gunpowder, which school authorities said was unauthorized.

The Lumbard boy, who lived in Fairhaven, was badly burned. Two others were reported recovering at the hospital today. They are Fred Walker, 19, and Felix Huba, 18, both of NeNw Bedford. The remaining three did not require hospitalization.

Girl Asks Basket For Needy Family

Brookline Child Writes Stirring Appeal For Yule Aide

An unfortunate father who has lost a leg, three children in the family, another one arriving next January; a sister and her jobless husband moving in to save a rent . . .

From Brookline, the 13-year-old girl in this family writes to the editor of the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund in an appeal that their Christmas Day, at least, be made more cheerful.

"I am writing you to see if you can give us a basket this year," she says. "I want to thank you for what you did for us last year. If it was not for the basket fund we would not have a Christmas dinner. My mother was so happy she cried with joy.

"If I am not asking too much of you, will you please send us a basket this year?

SEEKS BABY CLOTHES

"We have two more than we had last year, as my married sister and her husband is with us. He has been out of work for six months, so my mother brought them home to stay until the little one comes in January.

"My mother try to do her best to feed us. My father lost his leg a few year ago. He makes 12 dollers a week, five go for rent and the other go for food, light and coal and wood. There are 7 in the family now so you see it is hard for my mother to get along.

"I am 13 year old. I am not asking anything for myself but if you know of anyone who had any baby clothes they don't want my sister will be glad to get them. My sister has been in a hospital most of the time. She just come home today and she has nothing for the little one when it come in January, 1938.

"I hope I am not asking to much of you."

RELIEVES BURDENS

Only 13 years old—and a burden of woe on her slim shoulders as heavy as this.

It was to relieve such burdens at Christmas time, the day which should be the happiest in the year, that the Christmas Basket Fund was inaugurated a quarter century ago.

Since that time thousands of families have been raised from the very depths of discouragement and given a new breath of life—simply by the present of a Christmas basket, providing a few square meals.

A gift that meant but the price of a hat to the thoughtful donor who made the contribution.

Last year more than 6000 families were made happy on the Natal Day through receiving food baskets from the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund.

EVEN PENNIES HELP

This year the need is just as great. Poverty is always with us; probably it always will be with us. You, in your comfortable homes, your warm cars, your clubs and your more fortunate circumstances, cannot realize what it means to be actually cold in bed, to be undernourished and weak, to be hopeless in your heart because the "breadwinner" cannot get a job.

For those who are destitute and discouraged but who are trying to keep going for their youngsters, the Christmas Basket Fund editor is making his annual appeals for contributions, that some of these conditions may be lightened even briefly.

Any contribution to the 1937 Christmas Basket Fund, large or small, in the dollar columns or down to pennies, is acceptable.

Or if you would rather take names and addresses of one or more of these luckless families — certified, after investigation, as truly needy—we can supply them and you may furnish the basket, or baskets, direct.

DONATE NOW

Send your contributions to the Basket Fund NOW. Address them to the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Boston Evening American, Winthrop square, Boston, Mass.

You'll never regret it, and you'll have a new feeling of happiness on Christmas Day in the knowledge that you've lifted some luckless family out of discouragement.

In connection with requests for baskets, which should be addressed the same way, applicants are instructed to obtain an endorsement from their priest, minister or rabbi, or from their family doctor—which will eliminate confusion in distribution.

Applicants should also write their names and addresses plainly and be sure to include the number of persons in the family. This is most important.

So. Boston Man Dying, 4 Saved In 2 Fires

Victim Snatched By Fireman From Flaming Bed

One man was critically burned, another barely escaped with his life and a family of four were rescued in two South Boston fires that occurred within a block of each other early today.

Both fires, which officials said were caused by careless smoking, were within five minutes of each other.

Joseph Kebartes, 53, married and the owner of a three-story wooden tenement on Seventh street, where he occupies the second floor, was rescued by firemen from his flaming bed and taken to City hospital. His name was placed on the danger list.

The crew of a police car, Sergt. Philip H. Dennehy and Officers Alexander Nesky and Timothy J. Wallace, discovered the fire and led a family of four from the third floor. The family included Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Nychneawicz and their children, Eva, 9, and Stanley Jr., 7.

In the second fire, John Rollo, asleep in his house on Tudor street, awakened to find the second-floor room a mass of flames. He escaped and sounded the alarm.

Damage for both fires was estimated at $200

Boy Admits He Is Bad Criminal

Safes Won't Open; He Steals Psalms

A 15-year-old South End boy, on parole from Shirley school, who has sandpapered his fingertips and speaks in the jargon of the underworld, today admitted he had "flunked out on two 'boxes' in the last two days," according to police.

Translated, police said, it means that the boy admitted he had attempted to crack the safe of a downtown theater and finally contented himself with stealing a coat.

He was arrested last night as he allegedly staggered out of the Baptist Church in West Springfield street, South End, his arms loaded with psalm books.

He is alleged to have battered the church safe with a chisel, hacksaw, sledge hammer, and screw driver, but failed to open it. He will be returned to Shirley school.

Club Cook Held In Stabbing

WORCESTER, Nov. 12—A mutinous cook stabbed the Worcester Country Club chef five times with an ice pick during an argument in the club kitchen today, according to police who investigated. Both combatants are Bostonians.

The chef, Hyman Stewart, 44, of Lenox street, Boston, was removed to City Hospital, an ugly gash in the left side.

One of the wounds was said to be dangerously deep.

The cook, Joseph E. Nugent, 42, of Batavia street, Boston, was arrested on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. In district court, Judge Frank L. Riley held him in $500 bail for a hearing November 16.

Picking Machine Needs a Muzzle

ROCHESTER, Ind., Nov. 12 (INS)—George Hornbeck, 40, complained today that his corn picking machine ought to have come equipped with a leash and muzzle.

It got frisky and nabbed his coattails. Before he could shut the engine off, the machine had chewed off not only Hornbeck's coat but his shirt and trousers as well.

'Little Business' Tax Relief Is Mapped

House Group Seeks To Ease Burden on Small Firms

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—A House tax sub-committee talked today of aiding little businessmen by reducing the tax burden on perhaps by per cent of the nation's small firms.

Chairman Vinson (D.)of Kentucky, said some system might be worked out for graduating taxes on small firms on a lowered level.

No decisions were made on how this might be done, he said, but "we are hoping to lessen their burden." He added:

DISPARITY IN LEVIES

He said there was "quite some disparity" between the relative tax burdens of small and large corporations. This disparity, he said, the sub-committee may attempt to remove in part.

Vinson said the subcommittee also took up again today the question of relief from the undistributed profits tax for debt-ridden corporations, those which have accumulated a deficit at the start of a taxable year, and those coming out of bankruptcy or reorganization.

Meanwhile, Senator Pittman (D.) of Nevada, added his voice to demands for modification of the undistributed profits tax.

BACKS CUT IN SPENDING

Pittman, just returned to Washington, said he "heartily agreed" with a recent address by Secretary Morgenthau predicting the budget would be balanced through curtailment of spending.

From Chairman Harrison (D.) of Mississippi, of the Senate finance committee came the unqualified assertion that "there must be some modification of the undistributed profits tax."

Harrison, telegraphing this statement to Secretary Morgenthau from his home, added that the administration should endeavor "to restore confidence to business."

BUSINESS HELD BACK

Other legislators spoke in the same vein, praising Morgenthau's stand for balancing the budget through retrenchment, but private comments of some Congressmen indicated they were not enthusiastic about trimming expenses a few months before they are up for re-election.

"Under this levy," he said, "A company can't accumulate a nickel to be used for new employment, plant expansion and reserves.

"We have all the raw materials for an unprecedented prosperity and if the government would give business half a chance we could attain it."

Tobins to Leave For N. Y. Tonight

Accompanied by nearly 600 of his supporters, Mayor-elect Maurice J. Tobin, with Mrs. Tobin, leaves for New York tonight on the New York boat. Tobin and his wife will attend tomorrow's Army-Notre Dame game in Manhattan.

In New York, the mayor-elect and Mrs. Tobin will join Mayor and Mrs. Mansfield and all four will leave Sunday for Washington, where Tobin and Mansfield are scheduled to attend the conference of mayors of the United States.

Tomorrow morning, the mayor and his successor will be received by Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia at New York's City Hall. LaGuardia, too, will attend the Washington conference. He and Thomas E. Dewey, New York's racket-buster and district attorney-elect, are expected to make addresses at the mayors' meeting in the capital.

Tobin is expected back in Boston from Washington next Thursday, when he has promised newspapermen to reveal some details of his plans as mayor.

CIO Convention Here Next Week

The first state convention of the Committee for Industrial Organization will be held at the Hotel Bradford on November 19, 20 and 21.

John Brophy, national CIO director, will address a mass meeting on next Friday night in the Bradford ballroom in inaugurating the organization's first state-wide meeting.

More than 80 resolutions to be acted upon already have been filed at CIO headquarters, 73 Summer street, it was announced today by Michael F. Widman, Jr., New England CIO director.

Good Will Flight On

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Nov. 12 (AP)—Four goodwill airplanes piloted by Cuban and Dominican fliers landed here today from Dominica on the first leg of a 20,000-mile flight around the Americas. Their flight is to end in Washington on January 5.

The Merchant Marine

THE Maritime Commission's report to Congress on the state of the Merchant Marine points a grim task for the nation.

We have been told before, but never had it so thoroughly proved, that, in the words of Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy:

"The American Merchant Marine is a VERY SICK INDUSTRY."

The report is excellent in many respects. In fact it is fine as far as it goes, but it does not go FAR ENOUGH. And the Government would not be going far enough in carrying it out.

The Government will have to SPEND MONEY to get the Merchant Marine out of the disgraceful shape it is in.

Our Government is no novice at spending money. It is spending billions on defense essentials, and also spending billions on non-essentials. Indeed, it is wasting billions on trivialities and on some policies which are actually harmful.

THE Government should CUT OUT THE WASTE and spend enough on America's Merchant Marine to make it the equal of any other nation's and have it for the support of American trade in time of peace and as an ADEQUATE AUXILIARY to the navy when we need it for defense of our shores.

What we have on our hands is a shipping industry at the rockbottom of inefficiency and inadequacy.

It cannot finance itself even in its present low estate, let alone build new ships.

It has deplorable labor conditions, with shocking lack of crew discipline ranging from petty incivilities to actual mutiny.

What a starting point this is from which we must build a Merchant Marine fairly representative of America—a crumbling foundation of depreciated ships and Communist-inspired defiance of necessary authority.

THE Commission's report states the condition of the Merchant Marine with admirable frankness.

But its recommendations are MINIMUMS at best. They are on the UNDERSIDE of the problem. The Government could apply them all, and still not have an adequate Merchant Marine, either for peacetime trade or wartime defense.

But at any rate, the report is an EXPERTLY DONE statement of facts.

IT IS AN EXCELLENT STARTING POINT FOR SHIPPING LEGISLATION THAT SHOULD FOLLOW.

Congress, in fact, should have had and SHOULD HAVE DEMANDED just such a report before it passed the present laws enforcing regulation and strangulation of the shipping industry.

Congress Sees Trouble As Special Session Looms

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov 12—Congress assembled reluctantly in Washington today for the special session, with the leaders talking bravely to dispel the fog of uncertainty and apprehension that hovers over the next six months.

Despite their protested optimism, in whatever direction they looked they saw trouble, and—for the Democrats—further party bickering and dissension such as wrecked the first session and brought it to a futile ending last August.

Factors outstanding were these:

1. The administration is committed to balancing the budget and reducing expenditures all down the line—this in the face of a marked business recession, which is deemed certain to swell the relief rolls this winter and sharply cut the revenue from taxes in the immediate future.

MEET ON MONDAY

Conservatives have hailed with satisfaction the pronouncements for a balanced budget and slashed expenditures. But at the same time there are determined Democratic factions who favor further pump-priming by the government to meet the downward spiral of business and unemployment.

Simultaneously with the meeting of Congress on Monday, the United States conference of mayors meets in Washington to demand greater federal expenditures and more federal relief.

2. The controversies that split the Democrats last session, over wages-and-hours legislation, crop control, governmental reorganization and tax reform, are just as keen as when Congress quit three months ago. In some respects they are even more bitter.

There is no legislation drafted for Congress to begin on next week.

SPLIT ON FARM BILL

The wages-and-hours bill is still bottled up in the House rules committee, its provisions unacceptable to the Southerners who control the committee. Almost certainly, it will have to be withdrawn and rewritten, which means controversy and delay.

The farm bill is without shape or substance, with the Democrats split between various types of compulsory or voluntary methods of restricting production and controlling crop surpluses.

The administration's original governmental reorganization bill has been ripped to pieces, and the pieces scattered among various Senate and House committees.

Tax reform legislation, especially modification of the capital gains and corporate surplus tax laws, for which business has been clamoring has not been drafted. When it is drafted, it faces a bitter fight.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin Progressive, who has been a consistent New Deal supporter, is preparing to lead a fight for increased, not decreased, taxation, in order to meet the new emergency of the current business slump. He is opposed to balancing the budget at the expense of drastic cuts in relief and recovery expenditures. In that position he has considerable Democratic support.

MESSAGE AWAITED

The mayors who are converging on the capital to make their weight felt agree with LaFollette there should be no curtailment of "recovery funds" from the federal pump. They are led by Mayor LaGuardia of New York, fresh from his triumph in licking Tammany last week.

The leaders and the rank and file are more or less milling around in uncertainty until it is seen what President Roosevelt has to propose in his message to Congress on Monday. Departing from his custom at the beginning of a new session, Mr. Roosevelt will not deliver this message in person.

At the outset, it appears the special session, which will merge into the regular session in January for a continuous run, is going to become a battle between the "spenders" and the "retrenchers." To this controversy will be added the ingredients of sectional jealousies and factional and personal rivalries, to comprise on the whole a tumultuous session that probably will extend far into the summer.

Roosevelt Tells Guild Its Rival Society O. K.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (INS)—President Roosevelt was informed today by a member of the American Newspaper Guild that the guild "looks with apprehension" upon his acceptance of an honorary membership in the recently created American Press Society.

A woman member of the guild so informed Mr. Roosevelt at his press conference today. The Washington chapter of the guild, at a meeting last night, adopted a resolution criticising the society as being opposed to tred unionism.

Mr. Roosevelt replied to his questioner by quoting from the constitution of the society, as follows:

"'This society is dedicated to the belief that the practice of journalism is an honorable profession, bearing the nature of a public trust, the integrity and detachment of which are essential to free government and to the preservation of the liberties of the masses and of minorities.'

"That sounded pretty good to me," the President concluded, "and also to Steve here (indicating Stephen Early, one of his secretaries)."

Woman Killed, 7 Others Injured in Natick Crash

NATICK, Nov. 12 — A 57-year-old woman was killed, her daughter critically injured and six other persons less seriously hurt early today in an automobile crash at Speen and West Central streets here.

The dead woman was Mrs. Eliza Glover, of Water street, Saxonville. She was returning home from a family reunion in Natick in a car driven by her daughter, Mrs. Florence Ballou, 39, with whom she lives.

Mrs. Ballou, wife of a Framingham fireman, was said by Leonard Morse Hospital physicians to be at the point of death. She has a compound fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries.

A tragic sidelight to the accident was furnished when another daughter of the dead woman, Mrs. Frances Knight, of South avenue, Natick, passed the scene in her car a few minutes after the collision and took three of the occupants of the other car to the hospital.

UNAWARE OF DEATH

She was unaware at the time that her mother had been killed and her sister seriously injured.

Mrs. Knight, accompanied by a third sister, Mrs. Harold Seeley, picked up Arthur Merusi, 30, of Bethany road, Framingham, driver of the other car, according to police; his wife, Anna, 31, and their son, Joseph, 4, all of whom were cut and bruised.

After Merusi had been treated, she drove him to his home. Telephoning the hospital from there, she learned who the other victims were.

Also injured were Joseph Decina, 46, of Waverly street, and Guytani Carbonello, 49, of Bethany road, both Framingham who were cut on the face and body. They were passengers in the Merusi car.

BOY SLIGHTLY HURT

Mrs. Ballou was driving north on Speen street and Merusi's vehicle proceeding west on West Central street when the accident occurred, according to police.

The dead woman and her daughters had spent the evening at the home of Mrs. Seeley on Speen avenue, about a quarter of a mile from the scene of the crash.

Napoleon's Books Seen at Harvard

Books owned by Napoleon, Queen Elizabeth, Madame de Pompadour and other historical figures were featured in an exhibition today at Harvard's Widener Library.

The display traces the history of bookbinding, beginning with medieval manuscripts penned and illustrated by hand. Some of the early volumes are studded with precious jewels.

See Closed Auto Shops Soon

DETROIT, Nov. 12 (AP)—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, said today that "we expect a closed shop in the auto industry very soon," and indicated the unions' interpretation of "closed shop" was based on 100 per cent union membership rather than agreements with management.

He made the statement in a press conference while outlining plans for conferences here tomorrow with delegates from union locals in General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. plants throughout the country.

Asked about the number of UAW men now in Ford's employ, Martin said:

"We have enough to do business with."

Roosevelt Still Writing Message

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today his message to Congress would be sent to the Capitol on Monday, opening day of the special session.

He told reporters he had not finished writing it, and therefore could not say whether he would enlarge on the legislative program he already has outlined.

Baltimore Office Shut by Ship Line

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP) — The Baltimore terminal of the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company, coastwise shippers, has been closed because, a posted notice said, the company could not meet longshoremen's demands on wages and working conditions.

The company's operations in this port were suspended after company officials and representatives of the International Longshoremen's Association failed to reach a working agreement. The company operates to Boston, Savannah, Jacksonville and Miami.

Industry, Labor Harmony Key To Conference

New England Council Parley Opens Here On Thursday

Fuller co-operation between industry and labor, government and community will be the keynote of the 13th conference of the New England Council to be held next Thursday and Friday at the Hotel Statler.

Manufacturers, federal officials, economists and editors all will join in the conference in an effort to improve present relations among the area's many factions.

Among topics for discussion will be "Building Goodwill for Industry," which will be debated on Friday at the industrial session of the conference.

Feature of the conference will be the meeting of all six New England governors at the first general session on Thursday.

Like Girl on Flying Trapeze

Bones of Italian King's Ancestor Stolen by Ghoul

VIENNA, Nov. 12 (INS)—The most sensational case of "body-snatching" in recent times was discovered today with revelation by the newspaper Weltblatt that the bones of King Victor Emmanuel's great-grandmother have been stolen.

The remains were those of Princess Maria Christina of Montjeart, wife of Prince Karl Emmanuel of Savoy, who died in 1852.

Their great-grandson, Victor Emmanuel, is King of Italy.

The theft was discovered, according to the Weltblatt, when authorities opened the princess' vault in Montlieart cemetery yesterday.

The Italian royal family had requested that the remains be conveyed to Rome for reinterment in the mausoleum which contains the bodies of most members of the House of Savoy.

Authorities of the cemetery where the bodies of many well-known European figures repose, opened the vault and were thunderstruck to discover that the richly carved sarcophagus which contained the princess' remains had disappeared, according to the Weltblatt.

Police were informed and an immediate investigation begun. There was no immediate indication, the Weltblatt said, as to whether the robbery had been committed recently.

Mrs. Raffray on Way to Simpson

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray, who obtained a Reno divorce Tuesday, was here today for a brief visit with her sister, Mrs. Merrie R. Rogers, before going to New York to marry Ernest Simpson, former husband of the Duchess of Windsor.

Mrs. Rogers, wife of the director of the St. Louis Art Museum, said she and Mrs. Raffray would go to New York next Wednesday to the home of their sister, Mrs. W. T. Hollingsworth.

After they have been there a few days, she said, Mrs. Raffray and Simpson will be married. No definite plans for the ceremony have been made yet, Mrs. Rogers added.

Britain May Buy Coal Mines

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The government proposed today that the British coal mining industry be operated by the state.

Private operators would be bought out at a cost of $332,250,000, under terms of a government bill published today and to be submitted to Parliament.

A new coal commission would be established to replace the present coal mines reorganization commission, and any new coal discoveries automatically would come under commission jurisdiction.

The work of assessing mines and reimbursing present owners would take until July 1, 1942, whereupon the government would assume full title. There are 4300 private coal mine owners now.

Jack Plans to Wed Mrs. Godde In June

MONTREAL, Nov. 12 (INS)—Less than an hour before the liner Duchess of Bedford sailed for England this morning, Jack Doyle, the Irish fighter-crooner, slapped down two crisp $100 bills at the ticket window and booked passage.

Doyle was in Montreal less than a day and night but he stayed long enough to contribute a few new angles to the story of his romance with Mrs. Delphine Dodge Godde, motor-car millions heiress.

Provided both he and Mrs. Godde obtain their divorces, they will marry in June, said Doyle.

"Mrs. Godde plans to secure a London divorce in May," Doyle said. "She will likely leave for England sometime next week."

Saved by Lesson From Buffalo Bill

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12 (AP)—Buffalo Bill's tactics routed a would-be assailant. When Mrs. Albert McCreary, 70, saw a man hovering over her bed, brickbat in hand, she drew a pistol from under her pillow and fired.

Blaze in Capitol Is Quickly Put Out

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP)—Fire broke out today in a mop closet near the top of a stairway in the Capitol. The blaze, apparently caused by spontaneous combustion, was extinguished quickly.

Seize 3 Youths In Crash; 1 Hurt

One West End youth is in Boston City Hospital and two others are to face court today on charges of stealing an automobile, following a ride and a crash.

The three are accused of having stolen a car parked on Nashua street, and with having driven it to Cambridge. There their ride ended when they crashed into a car parked at the corner of Lincoln and Columbia streets.

One of the three, all of whom are 19, was taken to Cambridge City Hospital suffering lacerations, a concussion, and a possible fractured skull. Later he was removed to Boston City Hospital.

Police are investigating possibility that the car figured in a hit-and-run accident shortly before the Cambridge crash.

50-Mi. Connecticut Speed Law Widened

HARTFORD, Ct., Nov. 12 (AP)—The Connecticut traffic commission announced today it had extended the 50-mile-an-hour speed limit ruling, previously effective only on trunk line highways, to all state aid roads.

The ruling makes the 50-mile-an-hour speed limit the law for all paved roads in the state except city streets or town roads entirely within the boundaries of a single town. Speed on these roads is governed by local ordinance.

Betty, Jackie Wait 'Day Off' to Wed

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Betty Grable, film actress, here with her fiance, Jackie Coogan, said today they would be married "if and whenever I get a day off."

Jackie said the wedding would be "private, small and informal."

Sally Discards Fans for New Dance

Adopts Flying Trapeze In New 'Dawn' Number

Miss Rand's latest version of terpischorean art is entitled the "Dance of Dawn." Sally plays the part of a mythological bird. She is surrounded by a chorus of heavily draped maids in waiting, so to speak, whose flowing costumes contrast vividly with the brevity of the ex-Chicago Fair gal.

Asked if she considered her new number more daring than the fan or bubble dance, Sally replied demurely:

"I don't consider any of my dances daring."

Queried as to why she had forsaken the famous fans, the dancer replied:

"This is a step forward. I've got to continually improve upon myself. I've got to progress."

The next step in the wheels of progress for the blonde young lady is a part in a Broadway play—the part of a Hollywood actress.

Always quick on the trigger and with an eye to tomorrow, Miss Rand already has ideas for another new dance. It would be done with electrical effect, and little more.

By the way, this engagement at the Keith-Boston Theater is the premiere of Sally's "Dawn Dance." During the performance of the feat Sally's $200,000 insurance policy, as you've probably read, has been cancelled.

Held as Quincy Hit-Run Driver

George F. O'Brien, 24, of Dorchester avenue, pleaded not guilty in Quincy Court today to charges of driving so as to endanger and leaving the scene of an accident after causing injury. Police claim his car struck and injured Mrs. Elizabeth Phinney, 50, of Birch street, Quincy.

Judge Kenneth Nash ordered O'Brien held in $500 bail on each charge for hearing December 3.

Mrs. Phinney was struck and knocked down on Hancock street. She is in critical condition at Quincy Hospital suffering a possible skull fracture, a fractured right leg and internal injuries.

No Wonder Movie Costs Run to Millions

The evidence was found today in one of Jeanette MacDonald's first sequences for her new M-G-M musical, "The Girl of the Golden West."

The scene depicted Miss MacDonald's rustic cabin nestling on a mountain side with the corral in the foreground. Although a simple scene—Buddy Ebsen riding a burro to the cabin, and following Jeanette to the corral as she sings—it took many unusual jobs to film it.

ANIMAL HANDLERS

"ONE-PINE-CONE" MAN

Another "grip's job was to drop one pine cone to the ground.

Two others maneuvered pine bows, suspended by wires to cast shadows at certain spots.

Others with work to do on the simple scene were the director, his assistant, script clerk and secretary; Cameraman Oliver Marsh, his three assistants and crew; Miss MacDonald's maid, wardrobe girl, makeup artist, hairdresser, vocal coach and stand-in; Buddy Ebsen's makeup artist, hairdresser, and stand-in; a technical advisor, property men, carpenters, electricians, sound crew, painters, grips and gaffers.

Clue to Cancer Cure Found

By G. B. LAL
International News Service Science Editor
(Copyright, 1937)

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (INS)—A new clue for treatment of cancer was announced here by Dr. Richard M. Brickner and Dr. Royal E. Grant of Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Neurological Institute.

The clue is, that in rats suffering from a fatal form of cancer, "Rat Sarcoma of Type R-39," an injection of combined iron and sugar, "Ferric Gluconate," markedly checked cancer growth.

Even more interesting was the discovery, that injection of a dye enhanced the cancer checking effect of the sugar-iron compound.

Man Kidnaped, Beaten and Robbed

Seized on Wellesley Street; Thrown From Captors' Car

While waiting for a bus, a 26-year-old Wellesley man was kidnaped shortly after midnight by three men, beaten up, robbed of $10 and hurled from a car near the Brookline-Newton line, it was reported to Newton police today.

The man was Frank Mulligan, 26, of Worcester street, Wellesley, employed as a counterman in a Newton Highlands restaurant.

Hans Wilke, employer of Mulligan, reported it to police.

According to Mulligan, he was waiting for a bus at Walnut street and the Worcester turnpike when the car containing the three men drove alongside. All three jumped out, he said, one punched him while the other two jumped on him and dragged him into the machine.

During the ride toward Brookline, he said, the trio searched him, getting the money and the watch.

After being thrown out of the car, Mulligan walked four miles to his home. He was confined to his bed today suffering from a black eye, bruises and body injuries.

William A. Singer of Auburn street, Roxbury, today filed nomination papers with Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, for Congress in the 11th District. A primary election will be held November 30, to fill the seat made vacant by the resignation of Congressman John P. Higgins appointed chief justice of the Superior court.

Find Mystery Girl In No. Station

Tragedy stalked through the North Station today when the matron, Mrs. Carroll, discovered an attractive young woman weeping and moaning in the women's room.

She was removed to Haymarket Relief Station, where she presented a problem that neither doctors nor police were able to solve.

Young and attractive, she had on her person no papers or other personal belongings by which she might be identified; and in a state of complete hysteria, she could give no account of herself.

Police and station authorities are able to give no explanation as to how she came to be in North Station, nor whom she is, nor to name the illness from which she is suffering.

For an hour she screamed unintelligibly, and could answer no questions. Doctors then quieted her in the hope that she might be able to aid them after a sleep.

The young woman is 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 130 pounds; she has blue eyes and dark brown hair. She wore a black dress, lapin coat, black suede shoes, flesh colored stockings, black hat and black gloves.

Because of her black costume police believe she might have collapsed because of a recent loss by death of a loved one.

3 Gunmen Loot Fuller Offices Of $10,000

Force 50 Girls and Men to Lie on The Floor

fice and, although the door was unlocked smashed the glass panel, reached in and turned the knob from the inside.

Each of these men carried a revolver and the glass was apparently smashed with a revolver butt.

"Come on, you dumb —— —— before I blow your brains out."

KNOCKED CASHIER DOWN

One of the bandit pair in the vault shouted back, "O.K." and the two emerged from the vault, knocked the cashier, Timothy Smith, to the floor, stepped past him and joined the leader.

This head bandit then drew a gun from his pocket and fired five shots into the floor, the wall and through the windows.

With this they turned and departed without any show of haste. The salesmen on the street floor had no suspicion of the gunmen as they passed with the money and weapons concealed.

During the progress of the holdup, a supply department employe, Henry Beaudoin of 33 John street, Waltha, entered the room to get some parts at the stock room.

GUARD FORCED TO OBEY

He was ordered by the bandit on guard to stretch out on the floor, and promptly obeyed. He watched, however, and said two of the bandits wore short, sailor's jackets, while the third was in ordinary dress.

So suddenly did the bandits appear and go to work that a guard in the accounting ofice, Joseph Conley, had not opportunity to draw his own revolver. He, too, was ordered to lie on the floor.

Through it all former Gov. Fuller was unaware of the holdup, and he learned of the robbery only when a worker rushed into his office and told him.

File Bills to End Dog Racing

Two bills to abolish dog racing in Massachusetts were filed today with the clerks of the House and Senate.

John Shepard, 3d, filed the Senate bill, under the terms of which Section 128-A of the pari-mutuel betting law would be revised to eliminate all reference to dogs.

The House bill, filed by Representative Charles Miller, asks for repeal of the section of the pari-mutuel betting law which permits betting on dog racing.

Miller said Boston merchants have complained that the falling off in their business is directly due to dog race tracks. He added that betting on dog races has ruined homes and individual lives as well as seriously injuring business.

Three similar bills had been filed previously this year. Two initiative petitions sought outright repeal of the entire pari-mutuel system on both horse and dog racing, and one sought repeal of the provisions of the racing law relating to dog tracks.

Drops Dead Hauling Net

Cape Cod Fisherman Dies on Dragger

PROVINCETOWN, Nov. 12—Under sunny skies and on water as smooth as a mill pond, death came today for John Ferreira, 50, survivor of scores of sea storms and one of this section's best known fishermen.

Ferreira succumbed to a heart attack while hauling in a fish-laden net aboard the flounder dragger Emilia R. in Cape Cod bay, off the Barnstable shore.

A race for the shore was abandoned when it was apparent that Ferreiro who lived in Pearl street here, had died. At the order of Captain Jack Rivers, the dragger's flag was lowered to half-mast.

The beach at Provincetown was lined with friends and relatives when the craft reached home with the body.

A fisherman here for more than 30 years, Ferreiro is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters.

Sears Clan Fetes Twin Brothers At Birthday Dinner

By BETTY ALDEN

GENERATION after generation the famous Sears family has played a prominent part in the making of Boston social history . . . so everyone will be keenly interested in a party being given this evening in honor of two patriarchs of the clan . . .

In the company of about eighty representatives of the inner circle of Boston aristocracy, Herbert M. Sears and his twin brother, Philip S. Sears, are celebrating their seventieth birthday at a party given in their honor by Mrs. Guy Lowell . . .

Mrs. Gardiner Fiske

Debutantes who made their bows to Boston society in the Gay Nineties, and Harvardians who defended the honor of their Alma Mater when football was played in fields instead of stadiums, will watch the brothers blow out their seventy birthday candles in the enlarged dining room which Mrs. Lowell has had constructed on her Chestnut Place home in Brookline . . .

A very special entertainment program, involving some of our leading socialites, has been planned, but the details are a secret which we have promised not to give away until after the party . . .

Among those present to congratulate the guests of honor will be Mr. Herbert M. Sears' daughters, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., and Mrs. Bayard Warren, with their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. P. Mason Sears, son and daughter-in-law of Mr. Philip M. Sears, and many other members of the distinguished Sears clan . . . Mr. Philip S. Sears is a noted sculptor and Mr. Herbert M. Sears is well known as a banker and yachtsman and owner of the famous yacht Constellation . . . Both are listed in Who's Who in America . . .

Millwood Hunt Leaders Enjoy Sport

ENGLISH FOX HUNTING enthusiasts often voice their complacent British amusement at American hunting practices . . . Most of our huntsmen are business men who must work a few hours of sport in with their regular office schedule . . . with the result that hunt runs in this country are short and fast . . . and take place either early in the morning, before the business day begins, or late in the afternoon after banks and stock market have ceased to function . . .

British huntsmen, on the other hand, are mostly recruited from among the leisured peers and army officers . . . and those few who have confining business obligations either pass up the opportunity to ride, or leave the office for a whole week when a hunt meet is being held . . . British meets frequently last a week with an extended run of hours duration each day . . .

At first glance this would seem a reflection upon the ability and endurance of American riders . . . but many impartial observers are of the opinion that, though the English runs are much longer and held in much quicker succession, ours are shorter, but ridden faster and over much more difficult and broken country . . .

This same rough and changing condition of the New England terrain makes it impossible for our local hunt clubs to extend their runs beyond the radius of a few miles . . . but by choosing a holiday for the run they can closely approximate, for one day at least, the leisurely manner in which His Majesty's subjects ride to hounds . . .

Hosts at Hunt Breakfast

AS YESTERDAY was a holiday members of the Millwood Hunt didn't have to pay the penalty for their sport by setting their alarm clocks for the crack of dawn and losing several hours sleep . . .

Instead, the run was called for 11 o'clock and most of the riders were able to catch an extra 40 winks before saddling up and riding out to Clay Pit Road in Wayland, where the run began . . .

The weather was crisp and clear . . . perfect for hunting . . . and the group of horsemen formed a picturesque scene in coats of Millwood's official dark green and an occasional hunting pink, as they milled slowly about waiting for the start . . .

The run ended in the vicinity of Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner H. Fiskes' home in Weston where Mr. and Mrs. Fiske and Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Willis were hosts at a hunt breakfast . . . Among those who welcomed the steaming coffee and hearty luncheon after a brisk ride were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murchie of Framingham Center, Miss Susan Hammond of Beacon street, Mrs. L. Manlius Sargent of Weston, Miss Betty Dumaine of Groton, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Sewall of Chicago who are visiting friends here, Mr. and Mrs. John Carlysle of Foxboro, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Rollins of Dover, N. H. and Mrs. John Lavalle of Marlborough street . . .

Leaders Attend Friendship Dinner

REPRESENTATIVES from all over the world were present at the large dinner at the Statler Hotel, Wednesday, which was sponsored by the World Alliance for International Friendship . . . and of all the lovely and aristocratic women present, probably no one attracted more attention than Lady Cecil, wife of Lord Cecil, the guest of honor, who was very beautiful in her gown of white crepe with a gold bolero and a corsage of American beauty roses . . . Among the distinguished Bostonians noted about the ballroom at one table or another were Mrs. Barrett Wendell in a gown of figured lame, Mrs. Robert Treat Paine in a black gown of distinctive lines, with her beautiful pearls, Mrs. Robert Lovett in black with gold trimming, and Miss Sarah Wambaugh, whose dubonnet gown was of soft lustrous velvet . . .

Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving was present with his bride, who wore a lovely gown of deep ivory satin . . . Countess de Pierrefeu came down from her home in Hancock, N. H. to take her place in the auspicious gathering, and others of great social prominence were Mrs. Edgarton Parsons of New York, a very well known and wealthy clubwoman; Mrs. Stephen Cabot, Miss Helen Cheever, Dr. Christopher Eliot with his daughter, Miss Martha Eliot, Mrs. Fred Clements, and Miss G. B. Barker of London. Also Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cornish, Mrs. Courtney Crocker, Rev. and Mrs. Palfrey Perkins and Mrs. Sewall Fessenden.

Bridegroom Assists In Cake Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. WALTER MASSEY PHILLIPS both took part in the cake-cutting ceremony following their marriage yesterday in Union Congregational Church in East Walpole. The reception was held at Endean, the estate of Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, the bride's grandmother. The bride is the former Mary Reynolds Bird, daughter of Mrs. Francis W. Bird.

League of Catholic Women Sponsors Lecture Series

Saturday afternoon lectures, Wednesday morning current events talk and an organ recital benefit later in the season are highlights of the League of Catholic Women program planned for this year.

The customary lectures which are being held on five consecutive mornings of the new year at Emmanuel College auditorium, will deal with topics of proposed social legislation, Communism and co-operatives. Rev. Charles D. McInnis, professor of history at St. John's Seminary, will direct the series.

The opening of the current events discussion is slated for next Wednesday, when Mrs. Charles Feehan of Haverhill and Mrs. Francis E. Slattery preside at the opening discussion, "World Communism of 1937," at the League House.

Mrs. Vincent Greene of Dorchester who did such an excellent job in directing the recent three-day Congress of Catholic Women has been named vice-president of the league. Other officers include Mrs. Charles Feehan, president, and Mrs. John J. Whoriskey of Cambridge, secretary.

Nominated to positions on the board are Mrs. Joseph Brine of Arlington, Mrs. Charles Donovan of Swampscott, Mrs. John J. Hickey of Belmont, Mrs. Mary Knight of Milton and Mrs. Edward McHugh of Bridgewater.

Representatives of all sections of the archdiocese serving on the board are Mrs. Edward F. McManus of Lexington, Mrs. Thomas F. Quinn of Natick, Mrs. Mary L. Ryan of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. Frederic Sheehan of Quincy and Mrs. George Young of Cambridge.

Lecture to Aid Fund for Blind

On Tuesday night at the Copley-Plaza, Genevieve Caulfield, a graduate of Perkins Institute, Trinity College and Columbia University, will give an interesting talk on "What a Blind Woman Saw in the Orient."

The talk, which will be given under the auspices of the Catholic Guild for the Blind, benefits the fund for blind work in Siam. Musical program of the evening will be given by Loretta Noonan, a blind pianist.

A quartet of Emmanuel College girls will usher. In the group are Mary Beatty, Mary Flannery, Catherine Buckley and Clare Stanton.

Serving as patrons for the benefit talk are Mrs. M. L. Ryan, Dr. Mary Moore Beatty, Mrs. William A. Browne, Josephine Broderick, Alice Appleton Ward, Elinor Purcell, Mary Culhane and Mrs. William Griffin.

Others sponsoring the worthy event are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. John Warren, Charles O'Malley and Mr. and Mrs. Louis O'Malley.

County Fair On Guild's Program

A county fair at the Copley-Plaza Tuesday will transform the ballroom into a tiny replica of our state when the Guild of Infant Saviour holds its annual fair for the benefit of its charity work.

Nantucket and its heritage of old-whaling ships will be reproduced. Franklin county and its rural charm will be the decoration scheme of another booth, and enthusiastic guild members attractively dressed for the occasion will dispense their merchandise.

Luncheon will be served at noon, bridge will be held in the afternoon, and young daughters and friends of guild members will arrive at 4:30 to attend the tea dance.

Mrs. Joseph Ahern, president of the guild, is assisted in the undertaking by Julia Prendergast, chairman of the needlework table, and Mrs. W. H. J. Kennedy, chairman of the variety table.

Mrs. Thomas Feeny and Mrs. Harold Chisholm have an abundance of toys to sell at their table. Mrs. Daniel Holland will direct the sewing circle table and Mrs. Bernard Burke and Margaret Waters share the responsibility of the sweets table.

Mrs. James F. Gaffney, president of the Winchester Chapter, has charge of the miscellaneous table. Mrs. C. A. Spillane will act as hostess at luncheon and tea and Mrs. C. F. Bowen is chairman of the bridge committee.

Cecile Shanahan Weds This Month

Thanksgiving Day is always popular with brides. This year proves no exception when many make their way altarward to exchange wedding vows.

Among the most attractive of the day's brides will be blonde Cecile Shanahan of Somerville, whose wedding to John Carew of Medford takes place at 3 o'clock in St. Catherine of Genoa Church in Somerville. Louise Sullivan of Lawrence will be honor attendant, with Mary Carew of Medford and Eleanor Shanahan serving as bridesmaids. Tiny Mary Donahue of Arlington will be flower girl.

Cecile, the daughter of Mrs. Timothy Shanahan, was graduated from Marycliffe Academy and Emmanuel College.

Bridge Will Aid Garden Group

Mrs. F. Ward Paine and Mrs. Henderson Inches will open their Chestnut Hill homes on Wednesday afternoon, November 17, for two bridge parties to benefit the New England Farm and Garden Association.

Mrs. Paine will entertain those who wish to play contract, while duplicate contract will be played at Mrs. Inches'. Mrs. Charles F. Rowley and Mrs. Stephen Paine are assisting Mrs. Paine with arrangements and Mrs. George H. Shattuck is working with Mrs. Inches.

Three Debs Make Bows Tonight

A great many New York debutantes have come on to Boston to attend the large ball at the Somerset Hotel this evening which will mark the formal debut of three of this season's attractive debutantes. The ball is in honor of three cousins, Miss Natalie Hemenway, Phoebe Goodhue and Harriet Richard, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hemenway, Mr. and Mrs. F. Abbott Goodhue and Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Richard.

New Yorkers present at the ushers' dinner, which will be held in the foyer of the Louis XIV ballroom, will include Hope Baldwin, Theodora Roosevelt and Jane Delano. Diana Cutler has come on from Baltimore for the affair and Boston debutante guests at the dinner will be Jane Harte, Olivia Vogel, Phyllis Tuckerman, Cynthia Haskell, Florence Forbes, Virginia Prout, Molly Poole, Beth Cunningham, Katharine Warner, Hilary Lunt, Faith Richardson, Josefa Richmond and Helen Claflin.

Their dinner partners will include the Messrs. Gaspar G. Bacon, Jr., J. Tucker Burr 3d, Samuel Vaughan, Arthur Milton, Robert Little, Alden Howe, Watson Dickerman, William Whipple, Louis Clark, Warren Winslow, Robert Homans, Harris Squibb, John N. Broughton, Jr., and George Peabody Gardner 3d.

One of the largest dinner parties to be given preceding the dance is the one at which Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Peabody of Groton and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cabot of Needham will be hosts in honor of their niece, Marie McCook of Pasadena, California. Miss McCook, a debutante this season, is spending part of her first year out here in Boston where she has numerous relatives. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McCook of Pasadena.

Among the feminine guests at this party will be Margaret Mason, Nancy Osgood, Olivia Ames, Natica Bates, Helen Luscombe, Deborah Sprague, Jane Pickman, Marietta Howe, Nancy Smith, Betty and Geraldine Timmins and Isabella Grandin.

"I Love Married Man," Writes June Graduate

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The only sensible thing for a girl to do when she finds herself in love with a married man and the father of a family is to QUIT.

That's the sound advice I am sending today to Haverhill, whence comes this all-too-familiar problem:

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I was graduated from high school last June, and am 18 years of age. I met a man with whom I've fallen deeply in love, but he is married.

We've been seeing each other twice a week and sometimes oftener. I told him the other day that we'd have to stop going together, because people were going to talk if they found it out.

It has been three days now since I saw him, and I can hardly get along without him.

H. and his wife don't get along at all, but as they have a little girl, he doesn't want to leave her.

Please help me, Miss Fairfax, and tell me a way to make him leave her or help me forget. L. S. B.

DEAR CHILD:

The only thing to do, when you find yourself in love with a married man, is to end the friendship.

That may sound unsympathetic, but it will save trouble in the end.

You say this one doesn't intend to leave his wife on account of the child. Surely you do not want to be the cause of a little girl being deprived of her home and her father's care?

The world is full of fine, attractive young men who are as lonely as you are.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

TOO FAINT-HEARTED

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm in love with a certain girl who works in the same office with me. We don't see much of each other, because she's not the easy kind, and I like her all the more for that.

We happened to meet at the home of a friend, and I escorted her home. After that I took her out to dinner twice, and that's as far as it has gone.

I met her in the elevator the other day, and in my embarrassment I said "What are you doing this evening?"

She just answered "Nothing in particular," and I thought she acted sort of high-hat. So I didn't say any more.

Since then we haven't seen each other at all, and there is a coolness between us, for some reason or other. Now I'm unhappy.

What do you think should be my next move? MISERABLE.

MY DEAR SON:

Don't waste any more time. When you asked the girl what she was doing that evening, she expected you to invite her out when she answered "nothing in particular."

When you didn't ask her, she was left up in the air.

Just ask her again if she will go out to a show, dinner, movie or what have you, whenever it's convenient.

IS HE IN LOVE?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a daily reader of your column, and because of the way you have helped others, I'm placing my problem before you.

What is a girl supposed to expect when a boy tells her that she is the only one and that he can't see enough of her, and then he accepts an invitation to escort another girl to a party?

Does this show that the boy is fickle, or only that he is out for a good time, but still loves the girl just as much?

Don't you think if he cares for the first girl as much as he says, he would refuse to go unless he could take her along?

I should like to know the correct and polite form—the true lover's point of view concerning such a matter. PUZZLED.

DEAR READER:

Since you have asked me the true lover's point of view, I must say that I think a young man who is very deeply in love with one girl would probably not care to accept invitations which did not include her.

However, as you are not really engaged to the young man, it is perfectly proper for him to go with other girls.

I should advise you to see as much as possible of your other friends—both boys and girls.

Invite little groups to your home, including this young man, but do not let him know that you feel hurt because he sees other girls occasionally.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Accurate Bridge Defense

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

After a recent team-of-four match, it was interesting to note that a swing of 730 points on a single board had determined the victory.

Each team had arrived at the same contract by identical bidding, and at each table the opening lead was the same card.

North-South vulnerable.

North:
♠ 10 4
♡ K 9 4
♢ K Q 10 6 3
♣ 10 8 5 4

West:
♠ Q 9 7 6 3
♡ 8 6 5 2
♢ 9 7
♣ 6 3

East:
♠ A J 8
♡ Q J 3
♢ 8 5 4 2
♣ A 9 7

South:
♠ K 5 2
♢ A J 6
♣ K Q J 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N T	Pass	2 N T	Pass
3 N T	Pass	Pass	Pass

The West player at each table opened the six of spades as the best chance, despite the lack of re-entries. At one table East played the Ace and followed up with the Jack of spades. South held off, and won the third spade trick. Since West never got in to run his spades, declarer at the first table had no trouble in winning 10 tricks.

At the other table, the declarer was defeated. The Rule of Eleven told East that declarer had only one card higher than the six-spot. While it was perfectly true that East-West could run the entire spade suit if South's card were not the King, East saw no reason to give declarer a chance to hold up the spade suit if he did happen to have the King of spades. East, therefore, played the Jack of spades at the first trick.

South could hardly refuse to win the trick, since he could not tell which player had the Ace of spades, and if he failed to take his King, then he might never get it later. He could not make his contract without attacking the club suit. As soon as clubs were led, however, East stepped in with his Ace and cashed the Ace of spades.

Beauty Hint

The face should be washed with soap and water once a day. Extra cleansings can be had with oils, creams or lotions. A brisk patting with hands dipped in cold water is vitalizing.

For the good of the skin, the diet must be balanced. If the color is dingy, eat more green leafy vegetables and fruits; cut down on rich gravies, pastries, pickles, oily foods and condiments.

CHAPTER 12

After "Harp" Santell had been taken away, to explain to the warden just why he had a hack-saw blade concealed upon his person, "Gat" and the other "fish" (new prisoners) were ushered into a large barn-like room, where rough robes were handed them to cover their nakedness.

"[illegible] right," whispered the other con. "The screws, guards, doin' their regular target practice. An' baby, believe me, they're all crack shots."

TARGET PRACTICE

[illegible]

"You men," the guard began, "might just as well learn here and now the rules of this institution.

"Each of you will be placed alone in a cell, six feet by ten.

"This is no rest camp. Each of you will be assigned to some sort of work. You may not like it, but you'll do it. The rule here is—No work, no eat.

"I'll give you a list of our rules, and they won't be repeated.

"If you adhere to these regulations you'll have no trouble, nor will you get any reward or good time for so doing.

"If you violate any of these regulations, you will be the one to suffer.

"Your day will begin at 6.45 a. m., when you will be awakened. You have 15 minutes to clean your cell, make up your bunk and dress. At 7 you will be unlocked and will stand at your cell door for count-up. Then you march in to breakfast.

"At 7.10 you will march to the place you've been assigned to work, and when you arrive at your shop, you will have an eight-minute rest period, during which you may stand outside your shop and smoke.

"Also you may talk quietly. No smoking and no talking is permitted at any time other than your rest period.

"You will have a half hour for lunch at noon, after which you will have another eight-minute rest period before resuming work. You work until 4.20 and then march to the mess hall for supper. Then you'll be locked up in your cell for the night.

"From lockup time until 9.30 you may read, smoke or just sit in your cell. No speaking whatsoever is permitted within the cell blocks. At 9.30, final check-up and lights out. Is that clear?"

[illegible] but one [illegible]

"You mean we ain't allowed to talk in the dinin' room or in the shops?"

"That's right," snapped the guard. "You may ask for what you want passed to you at the table, or in your shop you may speak briefly if something connected with your work requires it. Otherwise, the rule here is—no talking."

When the guard had finished, the "fish" were ushered out in single file and taken to their [illegible]

These puzzled him, so he took a chance of violating the rules by whispering to the man before him.

"What're those gimmicks on the roof?"

"Tear-gas containers in case we try any funny stuff," was the reply.

"We'll manage somehow to get a parole—or something—for your father," he said.

"I know, dear. So far it has not been very encouraging, but I'm not going to stop trying."

GUARDS FIND KNIFE

Stenciled every few feet on the linoleum top of the table was the rule of the mess hall:

"No talking! Clean your plate or go without this meal the next day!"

At "Gat's" right sat "Tough Tony" Burke.

At his left "Harp" Santell, released this day from the solitary confinement of the dungeon where he had just done a "taxi" for having attempted to smuggle in a hack saw blade.

A "taxi," in the jargon of Alcatraz, is a punishment term of 25 days, and is so called for the [illegible] sides of New York taxis [illegible] 20 and 5, the rate of fare.

From the side of his mouth, [illegible] an introduction.

[illegible] of them moved their eyes from their plates, but in the prison whisper, which was covered by the rattling of knives and [illegible] acknowledged the introduction.

"Tony don't make me," Harp [illegible]. "We met when we was both in Dannemorra."

"Gat" relayed the statement to Tony, who momentarily turned to peer at Harp, and he too recalled their previous meeting.

Then [illegible] meal over, the convicts [illegible] tables at the sound of a whistle and began to march [illegible] of the mess hall. Suddenly there was a slight commotion at the exit as guards dragged a con- [illegible]

"NONE HARDER"

"None harder," [illegible] Tony. "But didn't some guy write a wheeze about 'stone walls don't make no prison,' or somethin' like that?"

"Well, if stone walls don't make a prison," quipped Harp, "I been fooled for years."

By ARLINE GOULD

FASHION is no respecter of excess weight . . . as you've probably found out to the accompaniment of a sinking, dismal feeling on seeing yourself in one of the new fall numbahs.

If you've decided that fad diets present pitfalls and that the average safe diet makes life a decidedly uninteresting thing . . . you will be vitally concerned about a brand new reducing product that has been accepted by the American Medical Association. It's the first time in history such a thing has happened. And the story is the most logical and sane of the decade.

* * *

It's called a "meal" though it is actually a beverage. And the pith of the story is that the beverage provides in the place of two meals a day the exact amount of health building vitamins, proteins, calcium and phosphorus that they might have contained, but without an extra fat-building calorie! And it's all right if your third meal has steak, or chicken, or roasts with some butter or French dressings, and many of the usual tabus.

For a normal person there is no safer way in the world to reduce. Safe mentally and physically, because you KNOW your system isn't being robbed of necessary health elements. One to three pounds a week disappear.

A tall can of powder much like the makings of a chocolate drink is the form in which this new idea comes. It is to be mixed with skim milk. And a generous glassful is your "meal." In the morning it is taken in conjunction with either citrus fruit juice or tomato juice to provide the Vitamin C which it does not have. Every other vitamin is there as well as calcium and phosphorus. Noon or evening as you wish you may have another large glass for your second meal.

It's called the "third meal" system because [illegible] average [illegible]. Don't get the impression that you can go on a calorie [illegible] on the third meal for [illegible]. There are suggestions for lovely low calorie meals included with every carton of the beverage and they include the delectable things we've mentioned as well as small amounts of butter, sugar and rich dressings.

* * *

If you've worried about finding a low calorie diet while at the same time losing none of your normal supply of protein, minerals and vitamins, this is your answer. Weight loss by improper diet ravages the vitality, hair, complexion and actually effects changes in facial structure. You can't possibly diet improperly on the "third meal" system.

Nutrients that maintain the muscles, nerves, bones, glands, blood, digestive juices and various gland secretions, and which regulate and co-ordinate the work of all the cells of the body are here in proper force during the use of the beverage. As a matter of fact, they're better provided this way than in three regular meals that might be badly chosen and balanced.

* * *

Natural sources (animal, vegetable and mineral) are culled for the elements used in the beverage. And unless you know all about it, you would wager it was just another nice, mildly-flavored fountain drink.

Behind it all you have the seal of acceptance of the American Medical Association's Council on Foods. You are protected against the danger of malnutrition which often accompanies haphazard diet[illegible].

For further information on the third meal system based on a brand new beverage which includes all the necessary health-building elements without the fat [illegible] phone Arline Gould LIBerty 4000, week-days until five, or write her at the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Spoiled Food Is Cause of Ptomaine

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A recent newspaper item told the story of a severe outbreak of ptomaine poisoning, involving a party of picnickers.

Food poisoning, or ptomaine poisoning as it is more commonly called, is caused by the eating of spoiled food. Improperly prepared food or its careless handling leads to putrefaction and spoilage. Food inadequately preserved or exposed to flies and other insects quickly spoils and, when it is eaten, causes severe [illegible].

In former years it was not uncommon to hear about serious and even fatal cases resulting from eating bad food. By reason of the great strides in refrigeration and the preservation of foods, ptomaine poisoning is now infrequently encountered. Rapid transportation of perishables guards against spoilage. There is no question that the general health of the nation has been promoted by these improvements.

TRACED TO NEGLECT

If you plan a long trip take a small refrigeration box. Always keep milk and other perishable liquids in thermos bottles. Avoid foods that are difficult to protect from spoiling.

The sufferer from food poisoning usually complains of severe nausea and headache. The pains are located in the abdomen. Of course such symptoms may not be caused by food poisoning, but may be due to some inflammation of the gall bladder, stomach or intestines.

Avoid the use of drastic cathartics and consult at once with your doctor. He can best determine whether the discomfort is due to spoiled food or is produced by some organic disorder.

These few simple rules are worth following when you are away from home. With trailer life and increased travel everywhere tourists are warned against these dangers.

Old-Fashioned Apple Butter Method

Well, we know just what is wanted, but we feel a little inadequate when it comes to giving a recipe.

Permit us to explain the vision brought to mind by that request. Apple butter with that remembered flavor must be the labor of the whole family. We'll attempt to elucidate.

The children helped to pick the apples and turn the cider mill, as well as carrying wood for the open fire under the big [illegible] kettle. The [illegible] after the [illegible] this was in preparation for making apple butter [illegible]

IT WAS customary for some male member of the family to be present on that day to supply firewood and [illegible] the apple butter with a long-handled wooden paddle. Every family had such a paddle for this purpose. Gallons of apple butter were made for winter use.

* * *

JUST a word about this paddle: the handle was long and the paddle was [illegible] at the end at right angles. This enabled the person stirring to keep out of the heat from the open fire. The paddle or blade had holes about one inch in diameter, bored at intervals so that the apple butter could circulate through the holes [illegible] the cooking and [illegible]

We are offering the best recipes we [illegible] candies we [illegible] They were always added to the apple butter instead of spices. They contributed both color and flavor.

We remember too that if making the apple butter was delayed too long after they were pressed [illegible] place had been discovered [illegible] was not always the [illegible]

CHEAPER MEAT CUTS FOR DIETERS

By IDA JEAN KAIN

WITH the current high meat prices, the reducer will find compensation in the fact that as far as slimming goes, hamburger is just as good as filet mignon.

Meat is a big item in the reducer's diet. The amount of protein is never decreased in the reducer's menu—in fact, it may be increased, for science has discovered that you lose weight faster on a diet in which a large percentage of the calories are in protein.

Beauty Hint

SOME deodorants are so effective in closing the pores in the armpits that they need be used but twice during the summer, not at all during the cold season.

All skins do not respond to the same remedy. If one preparation fails, try another. Don't bear with skin moisture and unpleasant odors. No sense in doing that.

CHAPTER 454

I had flung down a gage of battle, I felt.

"I know when I'm licked," he said. "Unfortunately you do, too. But I think you're taking unfair advantage of the fact that I can't leave you alone to [illegible] on account of your father's strict injunction concerning the guarding of your safety, which he left behind him when he left."

"I don't want to take advantage of that," I said hastily. "I can very well go up there by myself."

"You can," Dicky returned imperturbably, "but you're not going to."

A bit of traffic congestion made him suddenly silent, for Dicky belongs to the elite of motor drivers who do not talk when traffic problems loom ahead of them.

It resolved into a geometrical problem, he resumed when the road was clearer again. "You're hell bent on going up there and I can't go [illegible]. Therefore [illegible] I trot [illegible] along."

WILL GO ALONG

"Oh, Dicky!" I breathed in relief. It was almost [illegible]

"Don't you 'oh Dicky' me," my husband growled. "If you think I'm doing this because I want to, or because I approve of this most foolish of all fool [illegible], [illegible] cause I give a whoop whether or not you break your neck, you have another think coming. But I promised your father to look out for you, and I always make it a point to keep my promises."

It was several miles before he spoke again.

Best-Known in America For Gentle-Faced "Stranger"

The United States [illegible] best in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." It was a simple [illegible] little play about an elderly stranger who comes into a second-rate English lodging house and solely by strength of personality helps the inmates to live better lives, get along better with life and with each other. When he passes by he leaves them all better and happier people. It was a fat part and a very easy part for one of Forbes-Robertson's attainments. But it was enormously popular over here. Percy Boynton in his "Adventures Among [illegible]" (Dodd, Mead Co.) writes:

> "Within a week after he had appeared in New York at the Maxine Elliott Theater (Maxine Elliott was his sister-in-law), no fewer than forty sermons were preached on the subject in and around the metropolis. Wadsworth Says War Is Far Off

[illegible]

The business men expressed an almost unanimous view that nations are not economically strong enough to carry on a war, Wadsworth stated.

They are fully aware too that the people do not want war and the government officials fully realize that no gain can result to any nation from a war.

The men who fought in the World War are now of an age to have great influence. They have not forgotten their experience and the economic dislocation that followed.

[illegible] are Americans at the new slump hitting this nation.

"One man said to me," Wadsworth declared, "'You Americans are a most volatile business people.'

"There are no such sudden fluctuations of business abroad as we seem to have here," Wadsworth continued. "Perhaps the outstanding reason lies in the conservative policy of their business men. When orders pour in and mills are behind in delivery they do not run day and night for quick profits, because they know the market will be over-produced.

"The reciprocal trade agreements promoted by the United States were much talked of and with great approval. The intense nationalism of today is still the greatest handicap to a general industrial recovery."

Baseball Methods Used to Select Gridiron Winners

(Ed. Note—Not at all daunted by the fact that Austen Lake is ill as the result of his efforts in trying to pick grid winners, Joe Cashman tackles the task today. But Joe disdains the assistance of Madame Astra's crystal ball, Lake's favorite ally. He says baseball psychology is much more reliable.)

DAVIDSON AT HARVARD—Billy Evans opines there are more promising ball players to the square mile in the Carolinas than anywhere else in the country. We hope, for baseball's sake, that none of these budding Tarheel diamond stars plays for Davidson in the Stadium. A steal for Harvard.

Joe Cashman

CORNELL AT DARTMOUTH—Jeff Tesreau holds fall baseball practice at Hanover to get even with Earl Blaik for staging spring football. Jeff gave the Yankees "Red" Rolfe. Earl will give Cornell a look at Hutchinson, Hollingworth, MacLeod and Gates. So what? So a home run for Dartmouth.

HOLY CROSS AT BROWN—There's a baseball axiom that you can't win 'em all. Many a Holy Cross nine, however, has exploded that theory. Which may be why the Purple pigskin chasers haven't dropped a decision thus far and won't begin tomorrow. The Crusaders in a walk.

KENTUCKY AT BOSTON COLLEGE—When Boston College stopped sending its baseball teams to the South, the South started sending its football teams to Boston College. The Eagles don't like the baseball arrangement, and Kentucky isn't going to care for the football arrangement. B. C. safe by a Newton block.

* * *

NOTRE DAME VS. ARMY AT THE YANKEE STADIUM—The Soldiers will be the home team on the field of the baseball champions of the universe. The Irish will attract more people than ever saw the Yanks play. The West Point Corps will march up and down the orchard but the Cadet gridders won't get to first base. Notre Dame wrecking the old Army game.

PRINCETON AT YALE—Eddie Collins, Jr., saved Yale's nine against Harvard last spring. He'd like nothing better than to do the same for the Blue eleven against Princeton. Only Yale will be well saved before E. Trowbridge, Jr., swings into action. By that time one Clint Frank will have the Tigers as tame as pussy cats. A double steal for Yale.

AMHERST AT WILLIAMS—A minor league ball club has better sense than to think it can beat a major league outfit. The [illegible] in football either aren't or can't afford to be so smart. Amherst would be undefeated if it hadn't tackled Dartmouth. Williams [illegible] Columbia. Now they [illegible] to our confusion. It looks to us like a situation [illegible] squeeze. A very close squeeze for Williams.

* * *

SYRACUSE AT COLUMBIA—Joe McCarthy couldn't win a pennant with the A's. Neither could Bill Terry cop a flag with the Dodgers. Lou Little ranks right up there with the ablest football coaches but he can't steer his Lions to victory over squads that out-number them two and three to one. Palms down for Syracuse.

BOWDOIN AT TUFTS—A tie in baseball means another game. A tie in football means 60 minutes of wasted effort and one side or the other claiming a moral victory. What's that to do with this game at the Oval? Nothing except that our nite-before score is 0-0.

NEBRASKA AT PITTSBURGH—Pittsburgh is west in baseball, east in football. The Pittsburgh University football team travels north, south, east and west, and opponents don't know where they are. The Nebraska Cornhuskers have a very keen sense of direction as they showed by running wild through Minnesota. But it's much darker in Smoky Town. A step nearer the pennant for the Panthers.

Will Defeat Louis Again

Says Schmeling As He Awaits Thomas

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 [illegible]—Max Schmeling, the fighter with the one-track mind—is with us again after completing his [illegible] crossing of the Atlantic [illegible] years in search of his lost heavyweight title, and still insistent on the following three points:

1. That Joe Louis is still a sucker for a good right hand, (2) that he can knock out the said Louis more easily than he did the last time, and (3) that he will return here to defend the title after winning it.

"You know," Max began, grinning, "I call myself the discoverer of Joe Louis. I discovered he was a sucker for a straight right, and I see him in his later fights and he still is a sucker for the right. I will knock him out easier than the first time.

"I wish I knew some way to convince everybody I will be back to defend the title after I win it. I always keep my word. Remember, with me the money comes second. If it is only money I want, I could quit now. But if I quit, what will I do? Sit around and be a loafer? Not Max. First, I want that title. Then, of course, the money. But most of all I want to show everybody Max Schmeling is still the best fighter in the world.

"But all that's in the future. Right now I'm interested most in knocking out Harry Thomas here December 13 and Ben Foord in Hamburg January 30.

Cadets Cheer Army Eleven

'Beat Notre Dame' Is War Cry

The cadet team was surrounded by cheering cadets as it prepared to leave the reservation, while windblown bed sheets inscribed 'Beat Notre Dame" flew from barracks' windows.

With so many changes in the line-up Davidson found it necessary to point out mistakes carefully. Captain Jim Isbell was shifted back to tackle after a day at guard, and Stella went to guard.

The Harvard-Yale football game, to be played in the Stadium one week from tomorrow, will start at 1:30 p. m., Harvard A. A. officials announced. The public ticket sale for the game will start Monday.

Kramer Picks Green, Yale

By MURRAY KRAMER

The football season is on its last legs [illegible] just a couple of more Saturdays and another year of headaches [illegible] will be over [illegible] this coming week-end will see some of the finest football in the country . . . there are so many major tilts listed that it is really difficult to pick one out as the best game in the country.

Curiously enough, despite the abundance of outstanding battles, the only spot in the nation [illegible] here . . . Boston . . . Harvard [illegible] a breather in Davidson and Boston College meets the [illegible] Kentucky eleven . . . those lads from the Blue Grass country seem to be hot one Saturday and cold the next . . . hot or cold, I still like the Eagles . . . Tufts meets a traditional rival in Bowdoin and should encounter quite a bit of grief.

The two New England highlights are Dartmouth-Cornell at Hanover and Yale-Princeton at New Haven . . . the Dartmouth-Cornell game should be one of the best of the year . . . the Big Green is due for a slight letdown, while the Ithacans have been pointing for this game . . . on form you must go to Dartmouth, but a Big Red upset is not impossible . . . the Princeton Tigers are certainly out to give Yale everything they have, for it's their only chance to make amends for a disastrous season, but it looks as though they are up against an impossible task.

Holy Cross faces Brown tomorrow, and the Crusaders should remain undefeated . . . there will be quite a battle out in the western part of the state between Amherst and Williams for the "Little Three" championship . . . the game is a tossup, and the flip of the coin says Amherst . . . New Hampshire should have little trouble with Springfield.

A few of the leading attractions in the East are Army-Notre Dame, Columbia-Syracuse, Pitt-Nebraska and Penn-Michigan . . . tremendous [illegible]

Notre Dame and Army, despite indifferent seasons, clash in New York before a capacity crowd tomorrow . . . the Fighting Irish will be favored to beat the Cadets, but tradition has it that the underdog always wins . . . however, in this case the Army team looked so unimpressive against Harvard despite their victory that the selection must be Notre Dame.

In the Middle West there are several Conference [illegible] which should be of interest.

Minnesota is out to avenge its unexpected defeat at the hands of Northwestern last year and should do it by a rather close margin . . . poor Iowa is in for another thumping, this time from Indiana . . . Ohio State, after its bad licking from Indiana last week, should come back and beat Illinois . . . Wisconsin is host to Purdue, and Harry Stuhldreher's Badgers should eke out a victory . . . Michigan State entertains Carnegie Tech in an intersectional game, and it looks like State by a touchdown.

In the Far West [illegible] Rose Bowl [illegible] by beating Oregon [illegible] So. California is a bit too strong for Oregon State . . . Stanford holds the edge over Washington State . . . University of Washington will beat U. C. L. A.

In the Southland, Duke meets its traditional rival, University of North Carolina, and it looks like a victory for the Blue Devils after a bitterly contested fight . . . Alabama still very much in the running for the eastern Rose Bowl choice, will take [illegible] . . . Arkansas figures over Mississippi [illegible] Tulane is too strong for [illegible] . . . Auburn is a good [illegible] L. S. U. . . . Rice on form over Texas A. & M. . . . Vanderbilt is a shade better than Tennessee . . . Texas Christian should take care of Texas.

By JACK CONWAY

THE SURPRISING thing about the Hearst All-America bouts has been the remarkable showing made by the novices. These boys have proved a sensation in the two sets of trial contests already held at the Arena under the direction of the Irish-American A. A.

Mr Boston

There will be additional novice classes in the third of the trial tournaments at the Arena on next Monday night. You will see blazing action and exceptional skill in these novice bouts.

There are more good novice boxers this year than have come up for half a dozen years. The reason for this is very simple. For the past two years boxers like Salvatore Bartolo, Abe Denner, Harry Martin and Roy Keiley had a little too much experience and class for the average run of simon pure boxers.

These veteran campaigners under ordinary conditions would have turned professional before they did, but owing to the fact few professional clubs were in operation in New England they elected to remain in the ranks of the amateurs.

It was natural that so many experienced boxers should have a tendency to keep promising ring material from entering the amateur ranks.

It is a different story today. Most of the amateur stars of a year ago have turned professional, and it is a wide open race for the various All-America titles. This is why so many crack novices are tossing leather.

The open classes are also stronger than they were a year ago. There are often 20 to 30 entries in a class that a year ago would be fortunate to have ten entries. Each boy who enters now knows he has a chance to win, and this has resulted in much better competition.

There has been an increase in attendance each week at the All-America shows. [illegible] of the Irish-American A. A. look for a new [illegible] next Monday night when 130 youngsters will battle for fame [illegible]

Montreal Promoter Lauds Lenglet

[illegible]

"The McCoy-Lenglet bout will draw [illegible] in Montreal," said [illegible] with enthusiasm. "It should be a thrilling bout.

"McCoy has fought some of his best bouts in Montreal. He is as popular with the French people in Montreal as Georges Carpentier was when in his prime.

"Lenglet was born in Paris, and is winning favor with many of McCoy's backers. Lenglet is a big, powerful fellow. He is six feet tall and weighs 195 pounds. Physically he is much larger than McCoy and will try to win by a knockout.

"Lenglet has looked impressive in his early training, and is confident that he will eventually get a bout with Joe Louis for the world's championship. Lenglet will give McCoy the hardest battle of his career."

"I am one wrestler who has not dodged Marshall," Westenberg said. "I've always wanted to wrestle him. I've never been given a main event here but my work entitles me to one and I'm the very man to silence Marshall and Sandow for all time."

Sandow declares Marshall can beat any two of Bowser's wrestlers the same night. "I'm not Bowser's wrestler. I do my own business. But Marshall can't beat me, let alone two men the same night."

Davis-Guinea Scoring Duel Spices B. C.-Kentucky Tilt

Colonels' Ace Has Made 9 of Team's 11 Touchdowns

From Bob Davis, [illegible] of the eleven right down to the [illegible] the team was in the best of spirits and aching to meet this powerful Boston College club they have heard heralded so much down South.

He has done some neat broken field running this season and has rolled up nine of his club's 11 scores.

FIVE IN ONE GAME

Against Washington and Lee this Number 13 wearer made no less than five touchdowns. [illegible] one of these zero crossings came on the end of a 100-yard jaunt following a pass interception.

In the Manhattan game a few weeks ago Davis scored on a [illegible] yard runback of a punt, besides making two other runs of 44 and 40 yards [illegible]

Babe Prepares For Montague

Behemoths in Charity Golf Match Sunday

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (INS).—[illegible] three weeks Babe Ruth, the old home run king, today expressed nothing but [illegible] respect for the prowess of John (Mysterious) Montague, whom he meets in [illegible] battle of the Behemoths Sunday.

[illegible]

"I met him once before about six weeks ago and beat him," the Babe said, "but I'm discounting that one. He hadn't had a club in his hands for at least a couple of months while I had been playing daily, and at that he showed me plenty.

"Montague has the game, and don't let anybody kid you about his driving. He belts 'em a mile."

Meanwhile Sylvia Annenberg, former women's metropolitan champion, who has supplanted Helen Hicks [illegible] Babe Didrikson [illegible] was the scene of [illegible]

[illegible]

"Everything is all set," Forkins said.

Miss Didrikson [illegible] is expected to arrive from Pinehurst, N. C., tomorrow and practice at least once at the scene of the battle.

He has promised to show up today for the benefit of the photographers.

Bates Ties Colbly In Holiday Game

WATERVILLE, Me., Nov. 12 (AP).—Colby's attempt to climb from the cellar position in the Maine state football series scramble failed when Bates came from behind to earn a 6 to 6 tie.

Colby scored early in the second period after MacGregor recovered a Bates fumble on the Bates 32-yard line. Captain Normie Walker hurled a pass to Hersey, who raced 14 yards for a touchdown.

Bates evened matters in the third after recovering an enemy fumble on Colby's 48. Three passes worked the ball to the four, where a lateral from Hutchinson to Briggs was good for a score.

[illegible] defensive play prevented any further markers. Each team made nine first downs.

Andover Victory Over Exeter Seen

MURPHY STILL OUT

Andover, with a flock of [illegible] returning, had looked forward to a big season until injuries started [illegible]

[illegible] Lawrence, considered one of the best schoolboy quarterbacks in the neighborhood, suffered an elbow injury which sidelined him for the season.

His place in the backfield was taken by Hank Williams. Williams, while giving a fine account of himself at quarterback, was injured in the Yale frosh game so that Don Kubie was given the signal calling job for the remainder of the season.

In all probability Williams will be back at the play-calling position for the [illegible] game but Murphy will have to be the No. 1 rooter on the bench.

EVERETT VS. MALDEN

[illegible] season promise and although still among the undefeated teams has been tied three times, by Concord, Salem and Manchester Central.

The big problem in the Golden [illegible] the lack of an offensive punch. The line has held up well and is rated with the best in the state, but the scoring drive has [illegible]

Warren McGuirk's boys have suffered but one check this season but this loss came after a three-week enforced lay-off had hampered the training schedule.

Since the Melrose defeat the Tornado has come along fast with Capt. Bob [illegible] and Charlie Hanlan leading the attack. Last Saturday's victory over Worcester Commerce, city champions, served as a [illegible] that the Malden club is ready to go to town.

BROCKTON-MANCHESTER

Capt. Frank Saba leads his undefeated Brockton high school eleven to New Hampshire for the tilt with Manchester Central in another highlight game of the day.

The Central boys have looked impressive all season and if the Shoe City club is to be stopped this season this will be the team to do it.

Arlington's fast stepping aggregation should not encounter too much difficulty at Dilboy field against a slipping Somerville outfit. Coach Art McManus' club shaped up as a great team early in the season but since then has stammered.

Melrose, leading in the race for the state title, will be out to clinch the Mystic Valley League championship and should find the going easy, playing host to a weak Watertown club.

Chelsea high will battle Revere high school at the Chelsea Memorial Stadium in another of the day's standouts. The leg injury of Salve Cifra has slowed the Red Devils' offensive considerably, but the flashy co-captain is expected to get back in the starting lineup.

NEWTON VS. WALTHAM

Newton and Waltham, both knocked from the state title race, battle at Newton in what promises to be a hot session, while Lynn Classical provides powerful opposition for Medford.

Lowell faces a stumbling block in its trip to New Hampshire, where the Keady forces stack up against Nashua high.

Schoolboy Predictions

Medford edges Lynn Classical.

Brookline upsets New Bedford Vocational.

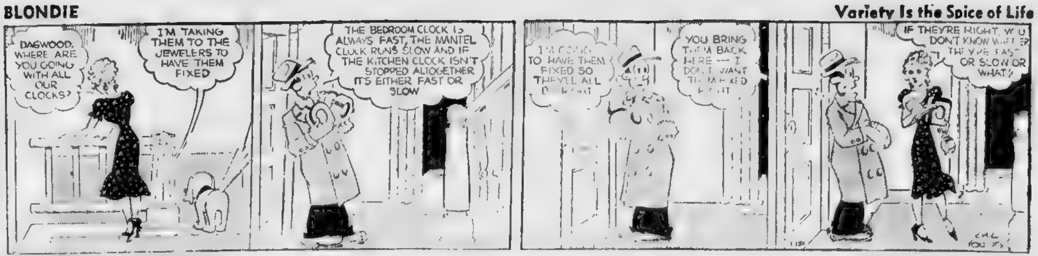
Variety Is the Spice of Life



DAGWOOD, WHERE ARE YOU GOING WITH ALL OUR CLOCKS?
I'M TAKING THEM TO THE JEWELERS TO HAVE THEM FIXED
THE BEDROOM CLOCK IS ALWAYS FAST, THE MANTEL CLOCK RUNS SLOW AND IF THE KITCHEN CLOCK ISN'T STOPPED ALTOGETHER IT'S EITHER FAST OR SLOW
I'M GOING TO HAVE THEM FIXED SO THEY'LL ALL BE RIGHT
YOU BRING THEM BACK HERE --- I DON'T WANT THEM FIXED RIGHT
IF THEY'RE RIGHT, YOU DON'T KNOW WHETHER THEY'RE FAST OR SLOW OR WHAT?

Frank Capra Due To Resume Job At Columbia

Peace Conference Held at Studio; Filmdom Notes

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 12—Don't be surprised if Frank Capra and Harry Cohn bury the hatchet any minute and Frank returns to Columbia, his alma mater.

Louella O. Parsons

The new MGM contract is for a long period and goes into effect as soon as Mervyn finishes "Food for Scandal," the Carole Lombard and Fernand Gravet comedy for Warner Brothers. Harry, Jack and Albert Warner have all tried to persuade Mervyn to remain in his own family, but he seems to feel he will have a better chance elsewhere.

A line or two: Gene Roemer, makeup man on the Mae West unit, is so good looking, Mae thought he should be in front of the camera himself, so she arranged for a test and now he can start making up his own face, because Major Pictures have put him under contract . . . All of us who love Clarence Kolb of the famous Kolb and Dill comedy team are so happy over the wonderful break he's finally getting—and no thanks to a lot of "big shots" in Hollywood he used to help so much. But that's not a very nice story. And the fact that he's getting another fine role in "Merrily We Live" is

NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

Two Trends Affecting N. E. Trade

Lack of Orders Plus Commodity Declines Reduce Volume

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Industrial activity in the New England area is confronted by two diverse trends, well sustained retail trade and declining commodity prices. So far the latter has proven the stronger influence and is restricting manufacture in the important textile and shoe trades.

However, the falling off in the volume of orders during the past several months probably accounts in part at least, for the failure of industry to find real encouragement in retail trade figures. If the latter continue to hold up reordering is inevitable and then it is logical to expect buying of the needed raw materials in better volume. And considering the low state of such prices it should not require much buying to bring about improvement. At the same time reduction in manufacturing costs attending lower commodity prices will undoubtedly bring lower finished goods quotations, which should tend to stimulate ordering. This will prove particularly true if merchants find their trade is holding up well.

* * *

FORD INCREASES OUTPUT

The action of the Ford Motor Co. in increasing volume production of 1938 models is not only aiding weekly output totals for the industry but is also proving a source of encouragement to observers of the industry. With all the talk of a business and trade recession going the rounds delays in speeding production by any important maker are looked at questioningly and general sentiment is directly affected. An additional note of optimism found in the dispatches from Detroit is that telling of retail sales comparing favorably with those of a year ago.

* * *

Enthusiasm for the new models is now springing from the various shows held throughout the country and sales departments are reacting to it. The net result may well be a sustaining of production brought about by rapid disposal of cars now on hand. In any event observers of trade and the markets want to keep close watch on trends in the motor industry for as it goes so too, in all likelihood, will go trade in general.

* * *

MARKET ACTION CHEERS

The action of the market so far this week has been distinctly cheering to those who have been anticipating a technical recovery of large proportions. The industrials broke into new low closing territory early in the week, but neither the rails nor utilities followed suit. Thus a negative signal that the decline had ended was given. Then the whole market, with the three groups participating equally, turned up in aggressive fashion. Some halting in here is a distinct possibility but if the rise is sound as many think it will not be for very long and prices will quickly take the upward path again.

* * *

The news is now with the bullish faction after many long weeks of disappointments and it is logical it will continue so for a fair length of time. The utilities, rails, constructions and coppers look to be the favored groups. Those who are in a position to assume the risks of trading in an expected technical upturn will probably find their best opportunities in such directions.

New Haven Plan Opposed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Reeve Schley, vice-president of the Chase National Bank, appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission today to oppose the debtor plan or reorganizations of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

Appearing as chairman of an executive committee comprising a group of banks holding $14,175,000 of the roads short term indebtedness, Schley declared it necessary, in the interests of both public and railroads, to preserve the integrity of short term railroad credit.

He criticized in this connection the road's own plan of reorganization, which would exchange short term debts for new ones of long maturity.

"If the banks are forced to give up their short term notes for long term bonds, which are bound to sell below par, it will seriously affect, and perhaps destroy, the railroad short term security markets," Schley declared.

Schley suggested that the road's own plan be modified so that present note holders would receive new three-year 4 per cent collateral trust notes, face amount, plus accrued interest.

The road's plan called for new 35-year 4 per cent bonds for exchange, ad capable of sale at par upon issuance.

Moderate Rally Noted in Stocks

Shares Gain Upward To 2 Points

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—The stock market tilted upward today but at a more moderate angle than in last Wednesday's sharp rally. The list overrode a large amount of profit selling at the start and numerous issues, after slipping, came back for gains running to 2 points. There were a few wider swings in high-priced specialties.

Extreme advances were reduced here and there later.

More orders for American securities from abroad were reported and foreign markets did better. Bonds exhibited strength in spots, although South Americans weakened following the Brazilian constitutional upheaval and the coincidental declaration of a moratorium on that country's external debts.

WHEAT HIGHER

Wheat futures climbed briskly as fears were voiced the Argentine crop had suffered severely from frost damage. Other commodities, on the whole, were higher. Principal foreign currencies were again down in terms of the dollar.

Prominent on the forward move were shares of U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel, Crucible, Inland Steel, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Deere, Public Service of N. J., Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, St. Joseph Lead, Howe Sound, Westinghouse, Du Pont, American Can, Allied Chemical, General Electric, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Nickel Plate, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, Air Reduction, U. S. Gypsum, J. C. Penney, U. S. Realty, American Chain, General Realty, Union Carbide, Crane Co., and American Radiator.

Building material stocks were given a whirl on expectations a huge housing campaign will be inaugurated by the federal powers as a means of bracing employment.

RAILS KEEP EVEN

Most rails were content to keep about even. Utilities were quiet. Motors had difficulty in getting ahead.

Helpful, following Secretary Morgenthau's address which renewed hope in Wall Street that the government will encourage private capital to assume responsibility for "pump priming," was the approval by Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee of the proposed revision of the surplus profits tax law.

Regarding the olive branch extended to the utilities by Washington, some power and light company executives were said to be still confused by the peace terms suggested in the President's remarks on this subject. Most important obstacle to a final truce, it was understood, was the matter of "valuation" of properties for rate making purposes. Interest was expressed in word the chief executive would hold further conferences with utility authorities next week.

CURRENT TOPICS

Studied for revival clues was the week-end survey of Dun & Bradstreet, which found some pickup in retail demand, but spotty conditions in other quarters.

It was pointed out that "while industrial schedules continued to drop in many of the heavy goods and textile divisions, evidence appeared of consumption surpassing the restricted output."

A drop in temperatures, it was said, brought more inquiries for winter goods and sales for the week ran from 3 to 7 per cent over the preceding six weeks and were 5 to 18 per cent larger than in the corresponding 1936 period.

The review stressed the drop in bituminous coal production, which was extended to 2.8 per cent for the week and 9 per cent less than the tonnage mined in the same time a year ago.

Th Bank of France cut its discount rate from 3½ to 3 per cent and the franc, at the beginning of foreign currency transactions, was off .01¼ of a cent at 3.38¾ cents. Sterling was down 1 cent at $4.98¾.

Brazilian Issues Drop Sharply

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (INS)—Brazilian securities dropped sharply today in response to the establishment of a Fascist regime in the South American country.

In the bond market sales were restricted despite the heavy offerings. Brazil 7s of 1952 dropped to 20, off 10; Rio de Janeiro 8s to 15, off 4⅛, and 6½ to 12⅝, off 3⅜.

Big Opportunity Wide Open for Right One

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—The biggest opportunity for newcomers in business lies in developing and exploiting high quality in foodstuffs at low prices, according to J. L. Murphy, vice-president in charge of production of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Incorporated.

Chatting with me, Mr. Murphy, who regularly takes young scientists out of the colleges and technical schools to fit them for business berths, said:

"The public has not yet become fully aware of the bearing on health of what it puts into its stomach. As scientific research proceeds, I think we will increasingly ascribe the most dreadful diseases to poor qualities of foods and to little understood chemical changes.

"Nature is the best scientist, and we learn most by observing and emulating the processes of nature. Nature's doctor, which has won the greatest array of medals, is time, and one of the great needs of American business is to pay sufficient homage to time. In this country, we are too much inclined to rush, and to sacrifice thoroughness and painstaking effort for mere ballyhoo.

"In the future, a great and outstanding business success will be won by the man who fully exploits purity and superiority of quality in foodstuffs—and who offers first quality at a reasonable price. I don't know who this man will be, but I know that the opportunity is wide open."

TELLS OF YOUNG MEN

Asked what observation he could make as to the behavior of young men entering business, Mr. Murphy said:

"I find no fault with their intelligence, but it is sometimes difficult to make youngsters realize that there is no substitute for productive work. Some are inclined to think that pull or cleverness will get them by. We need to start in this country a renewed respect for craftsmanship and honest effort."

Mr. Murphy thinks it is an inexcusable national economic waste to use a person of superior training and intelligence in an inferior job. When his company was recently building a plant on the west coast, the contractor was using a good deal of Mexican labor.

Mr. Murphy saw a bright looking American among them. On talking to the young man, he discovered that he was a competent marine engineer out of work. Fitting practice to theory, Mr. Murphy lifted this man to an important technical job on the manufacturing side, and he immediately made good.

Self educated, Mr. Murphy has intense respect for formal education. Imbued with the spirit of science, Mr. Murphy thinks that great selling consists of a proper appraisal of the merits of a particular product, rather than flamboyant external appeals.

He does not think that products should be improved quickly to meet a salesman's inspiration, but thinks that the salesman should concentrate on products carefully developed and tested in the laboratory.

REPEAT SALES

In products that depend on repeat sales for the success of a business, Mr. Murphy feels that the most important quality is "remembrance"—the capacity of a product to impress the person who gives it a trial and to linger in the buyer's memory.

High pressure salesmanship will get a product a single audience, he concedes, but unless the product makes good no continuing business relationship can be built up. Mr. Murphy is a stickler for building invisible qualities into a product, which make it inherently better, even though they may not show on the surface.

In the field of carbonated beverages, Mr. Murphy has introduced a number of significant patented processes. He was the pioneer in bringing his own company into the American market.

Recovery Drive Taking Shape Says Haney

Attitude of President Toward Business Thing That Counts

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—The administration's drive to stop the slump and turn business upward, is beginning to take shape. The general scheme to be as follows:

1—There is to be little reduction in government spending—only a few hundreds of millions of dollars at most.

2—No early balancing of the budget is in prospect; but there is real evidence of a more sincere admission that such a balance is important.

3—As foreseen, the government will not enter upon a big, direct pump-priming program. (It has learned that such programs do more harm than good.)

4—It will resort to a "nation-wide private building campaign," covering both residential and industrial building.

LOANS, CREDIT EASING

5—The government will participate by making loans and easing credit conditions, and by giving psychological stimulants.

6—The real help given by the government, however, will be a moderation of the radical "reform" schemes of the New Deal. Thus the crisis here will be met in much the same way as in France, only under our form of government, the administration's personnel is not to be changed.

We probably will not know just what assurances and commitments are made to business leaders on Mr. Roosevelt's behalf. But already we can be sure that the undistributed profits tax will be changed. The utility "death sentence" be withdrawn, direct government entry into the housing and electric power businesses be limited, and the working of the SEC be made less restrictive. Probably, too, we can count on a fairer and less biased government attitude toward organized labor.

THING THAT COUNTS

In all this, there is only one thing that counts. That is, the attitude of the President toward business.

As long as the "regular budget" is kept at the high level of a collectivist state and the accepted advisers are young men who think they know how to run business, business will not thrive.

It is a good sign that the administration now realizes the serious condition existing in business. Some real concessions are being made, and warrant hopes of a turn for the better. We are hearing the first unqualified acceptance of private initiative and profits that has occurred in over four years.

But we have to note that the "regular budget" keeps growing by taking over expenses for new bureaus. This means extended government functions that interfere with business and cause bigger debt or higher taxes.

FEW SOUND ADVISORS

The President sees very few sound advisors. Neither the young "economist" nor the selected group of "business leaders" are such as to be reassuring to business. (For example, Mr. Swope is the author of "The Swope Plan.") Mr. Eccles believes that money is nothing but government debt. Mr. Morgenthau has just publicly defended the huge public debt as being the necessary result of a "war on depression." He says that government credit is not strained, as indicated by low interest rates. (Unless my ears deceived me, this last statement made his audience laugh.)

We do not yet know how organized labor is to be made responsible and to do its bit toward reducing building costs.

We do not know what "common law" value means.

It now seems, however, that political success requires business recovery, and that the only way to get such recovery is to let business men run business on sound business lines.

This is where our real hope lies.

Manipulation Charges Made

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (INS)—Charges of manipulating the common stock of the Kinner Airplane and Motor Corp., Ltd., on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange were made against Charles C. Wright, the firm of Wright and Sexton, Herbert King, Norman Stern, and Arnold and Company, in a special report filed with the SEC by one of its examiners, Edward C. Johnson.

Inactive Gold Fund Declines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (INS)—The Treasury's inactive gold fund decreased approximately $15,000,000 today for the first time in many months.

Officials said the decrease was caused by Europe's withdrawal of funds in this country and this government's sale of gold to England and France to stabilize their currencies. On November 10 the inactive gold fund totaled $1,257,423,912.

N. J. Bankers Hear Bennett

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Nov. 12—Banks have not yet fully adapted themselves to a revolution that took place in the banking business 1921 and 1931, the annual mid-year conference of the New Jersey Bankers Association was told today.

Frank P. Bennett, Jr., of Boston, said in an address for delivery at today's closing session of the conference that in the "course of this revolution commercial banks of the United States were changed from banks making loans and discounts into investment trusts, and from banks handling only commercial demand deposits into savings banks."

Yet, he continued, the banks were still organized primarily as commercial loan institutions and "two practical devices" must be used for their reorganization in terms of their changed character.

The devices, he said, were the revamping of boardsof directors to include in their membership individuals familiar with the trustee type of investment, and the creation of county investment bureaus among the various bankers associations.

"Except we are willing to face the coming of the next depression in a state of unpreparedness, we must revamp and strengthen ahe operating methods of our banks so far as these have to do with the purchase and holding of bonds," he concluded.

Oil and Utility Leaders Are Optimistic

Business in Need Of Old-Fashioned Common Sense

By B. C. FORBES

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—"I have lived long enough to see a good many ups and downs in the stock market and have learned to take them as they come," philosophically remarked James Simpson, of the far-flung Commonwealth Edison Company.

All output records were broken one day last month. One bug-bear of the utility industry is skyrocketing taxes.

President Edward G. Seubert, of Standard Oil of Indiana, gives this column a rather cheerful picture of the oil industry and emphasizes that the only thing needed to bring about "tremendous industrial activity" is commonsense action by business, by Washington, by security owners, by the people.

"Business of Commonwealth Edison and associated companies," declares Simpson, "has been exceptionally good most of this year. There has been a slowing down recently, due to a decrease in demands of some of our large industrial customers.

"What the future holds we cannot predict. Considerable of the increase in business is offset by increased taxes. Taxes have become a serious problem, particularly for utilities.

"Commonwealth Edison on October 19 experienced an all-time maximum load of 1,004,000 kilowatts, exceeding the previous maximum on November 29, 1929.

"We have continued active sales promotional efforts. Sales of home electrical appliances and promotion of air conditioning, store, office and factory lighting and other uses of electricity are substantially ahead of last year. Contracts for air-conditioning installations in Chicago set a new high record in the first 9 months, increasing 39 per cent, with horsepower capacity up to 60 per cent."

BETTER EARNINGS

"The recent slump in stock prices caused a fair amount of apprehension about the future, but I wonder to what extent such feeling is really justified.

"Certainly in the oil industry, the objective facts so far are not discouraging. According to bureau of mines figures, we have a gain in domestic demand for oil products of about 9 per cent.

"This has meant good employment, and to many units it has brought better earnings. Currently there are signs of slackening demand in some departments, but this may be purely temporary.

"The oil industry, like others, has been handicapped by new forms of taxation. There is no question that the tax on undistributed earnings has discouraged many organizations from undertaking new construction and other forms of expansion.

"Congress could do much to release a new flood of buying by relieving this pressure.

WILLING TO SPEND

"Washington exercises more influence on business than ever before. But, regardless of the Washington influence, business and industrial activity ought to forge ahead. We have in this country plenty of people who want things and plenty of facilities to supply them.

"Given the opportunity to work normally, these natural forces would cause tremendous industrial activity. Mass psychological reactions are often too extreme. We need to go straight down the middle of the road for a while.

"I am rather hopeful that things will go along much better than alarmists predict, anyway."

Seagrams to Pay Dividends

Resumes After Lapse Since 1931

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Distillers Corp.-Seagrams, Ltd., announced today resumption of common dividends after a lapse since 1931, as directors ordered a payment of 50 cents a share.

The announcement also revealed directors had accepted an offer by members of the Bronfman family, which holds over 55 per cent of the common stock, to accept payment of their portion of the dividend, about $480,000, in 5 per cent preferred stock, and to purchase sufficient additional shares of the preferred to bring the total returned to the business to $500,000.

HONOR OR SHAME? Set. No. 6—Human Problem No. 35

1

Yet he fell under the influence of two ruthless and lawless men. They attempted to persuade him that legal restraints only operated to hamper extraordinary minds.

It was the plan of the Tech man's betrayers to get him to use his talents in support of their nefarious schemes. The time came when he had to choose a life of crime and ignominy, or honorable endeavor in his own field.

A. He tried to become a super-criminal, died finally in the electric chair.

B. He made honest use of his advantages.

My conclusion for this HUMAN PROBLEM is ____ (Write "A" or "B")

My Name is

My Address is City State

Mail to P. O. Box 1924, Boston, or bring to Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, Human Problems numbered from 31 to 36 inc. in a SET-OF-SIX with 10 cents, as directed in the RULES before midnight, Nov. 20th, 1937.

God will open the rivers in the high places and the fountains in the midst of the valleys. —Isaiah XLI., 18.

The text for today is suggested by the Rev. Thomas Campbell, pastor of St. John's Church, Jamaica Plain. The next text will be suggested by the Rev. Dr. Dwight Bradley, Union Church, Boston.

The Editor Says:

VISCOUNT ROBERT CECIL, co-author of the League of Nations covenant, addressing the Boston session of the International Good Will Congress, proved franker than most visiting British statesmen.

He delivered what amounted to an invitation to the United States to plunge herself into another foreign war; other visitors usually content themselves with vague hints that such a course would be desirable.

"Where the only way of stopping an unjust aggression may be by taking vigorous action, even if there is a possibility that it may lead to MILITARY ACTION," he declared, "it is a DUTY to do so."

In other words, he would have us unite WITH the English, French and Russians AGAINST the Japanese, Germans and Italians.

Of course, he did consider the possibility that some Americans would not like to die fighting under an English corporal or a Russian general, but he dismissed it as simply as this:

"A country is to my mind an entity, a moral entity as well as a political entity, and if you are a SUBJECT of that country, you MUST ACCEPT the responsibility for its policy.

"And if that policy leads the country into war, you MUST ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITY FOR THAT WAR."

So, under this internationalist plan, the government in Washington has only to say the word and American men would be drafted for battle and death WITHOUT HAVING A WORD TO SAY ABOUT IT.

This is readily understandable: Lord Cecil and the League of Nations are Europeans. Europeans do not expect the average man to rule. Europeans expect the average man TO BE RULED.

And that is precisely what will happen to us if ever we adopt Lord Cecil's suggestions and team up with the League.

MR. HULL GOES AHEAD

—with his proposed "reciprocal" trade treaty with Czechoslovakia, despite the protests from New England that the importation of a new flood of cheaply manufactured products from Europe means ruin for our shoe and textile industries and unemployment for hundreds of men and women.

The latest report from Washington is that Czechoslovakia's delegates are on their way to Washington, ready to sign on the dotted line.

Meanwhile, from Lowell comes the announcement that the 100-year-old Talbot Mills of Billerica are closing indefinitely because of "lack of work and uncertain future conditions."

The attitude of our Secretary of State is hard to understand. You would think that with so much unemployment existing here in our own country he would want to keep as many jobs as possible on this side of the Atlantic.

But that does not appear to be the case. He still holds stubbornly to the theory that we should bring in more of Europe's and Asia's cheap cloth and shoes.

The duty of EVERY New England official is therefore clear. He must oppose this proposed pact with all his might. He must do everything in his power to keep our dollars where they belong—in the pockets of our own people. This is certainly not the time to sit down and do nothing.

BOSTON AND AMERICA

—know that Congressman John W. McCormack is doing the sensible and patriotic thing when he asks that this country sever its diplomatic and trade relations with Russia.

When Moscow sought our recognition four years ago, she pledged herself to suppress ALL COMMUNISTIC ACTIVITIES in the United States.

We were even treated to the spectacle of Earl Browder campaigning for the United States Presidency and holding membership in the Moscow Comintern which plots world revolution.

Russia, long since, has thrown her part of the recognition pact into the waste-basket.

Mr. McCormack asks only that we do the same thing.

CAPE COD BENEFITS

—greatly as the result of the widening of the canal at Buzzards Bay. The number of ships using that waterway is more than 30 per cent greater than nine years ago when the government took charge. And this year is expected to set a new record with a traffic of more than 12,000 vessels.

The Cape canal's success ought to encourage friends of Boston Harbor. With deeper and wider channels leading to us from the open sea, we too could enjoy increased prosperity.

An obsolete harbor is hardly better than an obsolete automobile; both are ignored in the forward march of progress.

Behind the Front

By

America continues to be solicited to defend "Spanish Democracy" by furnishing funds for the benefit of the "Loyalist" Government.

It is not this country's business to defend ANY foreign cause, nor to get involved in ANY civil war on either side.

New York Day by Day

By
O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.

THOUGHTS while strolling. No artist rips open the stuffed shirts and reveals the straw like Peter Arno. Nor can any of the stage smirkers top Jimmy Durante. Vincent Astor's walk is almost a gallop. If I had his dough I'd just mosey along.

Royal tradition forbids speaking harshly to anyone. So-o-o, that's why no one knows what the Duke thinks of the Archbishop of Canterbury. But most of us have a sneaky idea. Impossible street scenes: Howard Chandler Christy without pipe and dog. Memory: Photo by Sarony.

Teeth wide apart celebrities: Henry L. Doherty, Katharine Cornell and Harold Ross. The town's only unsigned columnist: Simeon Stransky of the Times. And a fine one. Pierre Cartier sounds like a detective out of a French novel. And Abercrombie and Fitch sounds scratchy.

Mrs. George S. Kaufman has one of those white feathers in her hair, too. A fellow you see everywhere: Eddie Wasserman. Capsule review: Ernest Hemingway's latest is just another grand dirty book.

Never saw Harry Kemp, the poet, north of 14th street. Amusing book title: Mme. Alda's "Men, Women and Tenors." Swallowing a ripe plum name: Gelett Burgess. Funny Sayings Department: If Professor Quiz ever met one of my aunts he'd feel pretty amateurish.

Art Kudner, whose advertising agency was given the publicity side of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor's tour, is one of the spectacular successes of his field. Starting from scratch, he has developed an enormous organization, occupying elaborate offices opposite St. Patrick's on the avenue. He flies in his own airplane to his ranch in New Mexico for week-ends. In appearance he suggests Karl Kitchen with a full crop of hair. Kudner is not socially minded and the idea of arranging the press contacts was suggested by a mutual friend of Kudner and the Duke.

I was in a mixed crowd a few evenings ago where they recited limericks with the lid off. I hate limericks in a crowd and by wholesale. It brings out that silly lascivious look on men's faces and is worst on the faces of women. One has a touch of shame for the human race. A limerick is a thing for a tete-a-tete. More than one or two is like having too much caviar. I somehow dread seeing the animal come out on people's faces.

Amy Vanderbilt, of the collateral Vanderbilts, the side without whopping wealth, has become one of the town's sprightliest publicity ladies as well as contributor to the magazines. A Lucy Stoner, she is the wife of a young department store executive and lives on Staten Island. Another Vanderbilt, Cornelius, Jr., seems determined as ever to write, knocking about America and Europe in his de luxe trailer, the original free lance of the aristocrats!

Nellie Revell was the first woman press agent, doing a grand job for a string of vaudeville houses. Today, despite many bumps, she refuses to accept the Mark Twain dictum that life is a swindle, and is active in writing and broadcasting. Since Miss Revell blazed the trail, women press agents are plentiful and successful. Both in New York and Hollywood. Two in New York are reputed to receive salaries of around $30,000.

Much press agent material comes to my desk, naturally. And as a former member of the craft my attitude is sympathetic, but the fact is little is usable. It is largely mimeographic pap. The late Walter Kingsley was the ideal press agent from the columnist's viewpoint. He studied the columns, dug up gems of paragraphic possibilities and polished them up so they were well nigh flawless. And he winnowed more high class publicity than any other ballyhooer of his time.

The Marry-Go-Round

By Helen Rowland

A man's club is a haven wherein he may sit and doze or muse for hours, undisturbed; where he can always find someone with whom to chat when he feels expansive; where he may be alone or in company, at will, and where if he wants to keep silent, nobody sniffles and wonders if his love is dead.

A club is a place where he is always sure of a pleasant greeting the minute he sticks his head in the door—no matter what hour it may be; where he may go to sleep after dinner or sit up until dawn, without any fuss being made; where he may rise with the lark or doze until noon in peace and tranquillity, and where no telephones or telegrams will bother him if he doesn't want to be disturbed.

Of course no club ever smelled of violet talcum and scented soap and Shalimar, or told a man how wonderful he was, or called him "honey," or let him park his hat any old place his fancy happened to choose.

But then, no club ever made him swallow a horrible tasting tonic, water the lawn or gargle his throat, or acted jealous if he looked at another club.

Perhaps that's why a man is always so eager to go to his club and so reluctant to leave it. In a club he is his own guardian!

His club is his sanctuary—the only sanctuary where he can escape from the ubiquitous and omnipresent female of the species, consort with his own kind and be as atavistic and he-mannish as he pleases.

Human Side of the News

By
Edwin C. Hill

I HAVE heard much talk of that story of the Washington re-run of that 1881 graphophone record in which some voice now stilled and lost to fame reminds us that, "there are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy." It was the first wax recording of the human voice.

Charles Sumner Tainter, inventor of the graphophone, still lives, in San Diego, at the age of 83. But the real voice is a ghost voice from the dark vault of Smithsonian Institution.

Indeed there has been a disclosure of "more things" since 1881, including the girl's hat I saw yesterday and mistook for a rubber boot, but I find in this graphophone business people like to speculate about just what human utterance is really worth preserving for all time.

Obviously any song by a great singer should be kept—and, of course, a great many of them are. But what about the great orations which are supposed to have swayed human destiny?

I was talking about this with some friends. Right off, everybody agreed that the world would be enriched if the phonograph had been jogged ahead in Time's file and we could now hear Lincoln's Gettysburg address, as it was spoken. There was general agreement that Bryan's "Cross of Gold" speech, what with the attendant drama of that critical moment in the Democratic convention, also was memorable and worth saving.

It is fascinating to think of running off one of the great speeches of Edmund Burke, or one of the furious exhortations of Martin Luther, or going away back to hear Cicero denounce Cataline. But, as to the comparative potency of the spoken and written word, it will be recalled that the immortal Gettysburg address, when delivered, moved the audience not at all.

A great many addresses of today are electrically recorded. President Roosevelt's Buenos Aires address of December, 1936, in which he proclaimed the unity of the democratic nations of the Western Hemisphere, was thus registered for the future. Even his sharpest critics said it was a history-making oration. One can think of a few others but the orations of the modern statesman are a dime a dozen.

The record which is being turned on in countless homes throughout the world, as rapt listeners stand by with tears in their eyes, the record which is being sought by collectors at rising prices, was not the outgiving of a great statesman, paring destiny in deathless dithyrambs. Nothing like that. It is the record of a young king putting away an empire for a woman—"the woman I love."

The radio gave him a world audience. Never in all history did a voice reach all the peoples of the world at such a moment of high drama. And what moved his hearers was none of the new "things in heaven and earth." Old as the hills were the plot and the denouement.

In this day and age, we may well be reminded that "there are more OLD things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy." Modern psychology knows that.

The plaintive little Shakespearean squawk of the old graphophone suggests that some day humanity will keep a "future file" for the integration of human knowledge and wisdom. Wise and good men, taking staff and scrip for their final journey into the mists will tell to a phonograph what they know of life and what they believe of things temporal and eternal and the record will be filed to be heard in 100 or 200 or 300 years.

The future may not only hear but see our prophets of today—if any such there be. Historians of the future may do a better job of piecing together the jig-saw puzzle of the centuries and, gaining understanding, we may yet gain a civilization.

March of Events

I LATELY saw in a newspaper the picture of an ambulance about to be shipped to Spain. On the side of the machine were the names of the donors—a list of well-known American writers and motion picture actors. Beneath was the legend: "FOR THE SPANISH DEMOCRACY."

This "Spanish Democracy" must be located somewhere in Utopia, for the present so-called "Loyalist" government in Spain is Communistic-Anarchistic.

No sooner had the "Popular Front" triumphed (by a wholesale gerrymandering of the electoral districts) in 1936 than Spain was taken over bag and baggage by the Communists, who throughout the length and breadth of the land began a reign of terror and a series of brutal murders of the rich, the middle classes and nuns and priests.

Between 1931, when King Alfonso was banished, and the seizure of the government by the Reds in 1936 there was the semblance of a "republic." That was the nearest Spain ever got to "democracy."

It's a long stretch from the Battle of Waterloo to the "do or die!" stand of a Chinese battalion recently marooned in Chapei, Shanghai. There is, however, a distinct similarity between an incident on the Belgian battlefield in 1815 and the heroic stand of the "Suicide Battalion" in China in 1937.

Napoleon was going down under the onslaughts of Wellington and Bluecher. The last square of the Old Guard still held out. It was surrounded by vast masses of soldiers and the guns of the allied armies of Europe.

Awed by the heroism of these few Frenchmen, an English colonel, under a white flag, appeared before the last square, now in tatters, and said:

"Brave Frenchmen, surrender or die!"

The answer of General Cambronne is historic:

"The Old Guard dies, but never surrenders!"

A Los Angeles reader of the "March of Events" wants to know why I say Communism and Socialism are "reactionary forces."

What do we mean by going backward politically? We mean a return to those ideas and forms out of which we struggled—slavery, state-tyranny and the use of the individual as a pawn in the games of dictators and kings.

Communism, Socialism, Fascism and English Toryism are therefore all equally REACTIONARY. They are movements backward to the time when man was the absolute slave of the state, when he wore a ball-and-chain and a gag in his mouth, precisely as the people of Russia, Germany and Italy do today.

The opposite of these reactionary, DEGENERATIVE, movements is ALWAYS the struggle for more and more FREEDOM FOR THE INDIVIDUAL—which is progress, or GOING FORWARD.

Listen, World!

YOUNG AMERICA—I'm for it a million. Maybe it's the up-'n'attem air they breathe . . . maybe it's the Machine Age that serves their every step . . . but, whatever the reason, they're the liveliest, smartest crop of humans this old race has ever produced. And yet—

They have one weakness which, nine times out of ten, nullifies all their virtues and licks them in the end. And that is?

THEY CAN'T BE BOTHERED WITH DETAILS.

Here's an example. I've always worked with groups of youngsters. Last winter I started a newspaper department for them—a space where Young America, up to 30, might say its say on the questions of the day.

Newspaper space is precious—zealously guarded. Could millions of young people say anything that justified such an outlay? I vowed they could—won my point—and Young America got its column, with roof-lifting results.

But wait! One little thing—or was it so little?—was wrong with these phenomenal letters. Their ideas were brilliant, their reactions swift, supple and sympathetic. But, when it came to presenting their material—

THEY COULDN'T BE BOTHERED WITH DETAILS.

There are certain rules to be followed in writing for this Young America department, in competing for its prizes. For example—writers must count their words . . . confine their letters to 250, 300 or 350 words, as the case may be. The reason for this is obvious. When 2000 or more letters are received daily, communications must perforce be short. Also—such limitation is essential to any good writing.

But were these rules observed? They were not! Here was an eagerly awaited chance for public expression . . . A most welcome offer of cash prizes. Their enthusiasm surpassed all expectation . . . Overnight they established a feature unique in newspaper history. But they "couldn't be bothered" to obey the simple rules on which their success was based.

"I know I've written too much but you can easily cut it down" . . . "It's silly to expect anyone to say anything in 250 words."

Such were their excuses and complaints—and with each excuse, each complaint, the writer revealed some fundamental weakness which will, inevitably, bar his or her progress in life.

I suspect they've been spoiled by machines—these brilliant youngsters. They've learned to lean on machines . . . they've let machines take the fret and monotony out of life.

As speedsters and show-offs they're there 100 per cent . . . but when it comes to doing the small, obscure thing right—THEY CAN'T BE BOTHERED.
